DE GAULLE TO SHED POWERS

PARIS (UPI)—President Charles de Gaulle announced tonight that he plans to surrender his emergency dictatorial powers at the end of this month.

De Gaulle made the announcement to his cabinet just before leaving for a four-day grassroots speaking tour of the French provinces.

The president took full powers to rule the country under article 16 of the Fifth Republic's constitution at the time of the Alger revolt last April.

130 MPH WINDS

Hurricane Threatens N. England

CAPE HATTERAS, N.C. (AP)—Hurricane Esther with drew a threat to the North Carolina-Virginia coast today but rumbled off-shore on a course which forecasters said would take it close to southeastern New England Thursday morning.

At noon, EDT, hurricane warnings were hoisted from eastern Long Island, N.Y., to Provincetown, Mass. Winds will increase to gale force tonight and hurricane winds are likely by Thursday morning in the area, pushing tides three to six feet above normal, the weather bureau at Washington predicted.

Hurricane warnings were lowered at noon from Cape Hatteras, N.C., to the Virginia Capes.

Forecasters estimated highest winds to be about 130 miles an hour near the storm centre. Thousands evacuated the Virginia and Maryland coast areas.

Esther, the season's first hurricane to menace the east coast, churned up waves 33 feet high as she labored past the diamond-shaped tip of this coastal point known as the "graveyard of the Atlantic."

Record Radiation Measured in East

Highest Since Checks Began

OTTAWA (UPI)—Health Minister J. Waldo Monteith disclosed today that fallout from Soviet nuclear tests has pushed levels in Canada to the highest point in the two years samplings have been made.

He said the level in Toronto on Sept. 16-17 was 470 units, 1,500 times normal.

Monteith said the international commission of radiological protection's maximum permissible tolerance level was 6.6 units maintained over a lifetime.

But he said the present levels "might constitute a health hazard" if maintained for a "sufficient" period.

DROPS QUICKLY

He said the level in Toronto fell from 470 on Sept. 16-17 to 215 on Sept. 17-18. Other figures from the samplings were Ottawa, 90 and 75; Fredericton, N.B., 140 and 90; Montreal 80 and 190 and Windsor, Ont., 200 and 260.

Vancouver had the highest reading in Western Canada with 20 units on Sept. 9. The Vancouver level fell to 3.6 the next day.

The average level in Canada before the resumption of nuclear tests by the Soviet Union on Sept. 1 was 3.14 units. The previous high was 90 recorded in Whitehorse, N.W.T., in the spring following Soviet tests in the fall of 1958.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker told the Commons the figures showed a "flagrant disregard" for humanity on the part of the Soviet Union. He said the figures would be sent to External Affairs Minister Green in New York to be brought to the attention of the United Nations.

Monteith made his statement to the Commons and spoke later with newsmen. He was accompanied by several of his lieutenants.

SHORT-LIVED

One of the advisors, Dr. Peter M. Bird, said the fallout detected over Canada contained short-lived components which were quickly dissipated and were not harmful. He said the actual level of dangerous strontium 90 in the 470 units recorded in Toronto would be 0.3 units based on the 6.6 unit tolerance level.

"I don't think there's any health hazard at the present time," Bird said.

He added, however, that the effect of constant short-lived activity—for example, from continuing tests one right after another—was not known. He said this might be dangerous.

The unit used for measuring the fallout at Canada's 24 sampling stations is nuclear disintegrations per minute per cubic meter of air.

The highest level recorded Sept. 7, the first check after the Soviet tests, was 30 units in Edmonton.

Bird said the level in Toronto might have been so much higher than other centres because of many factors, including wind direction.

U.S. RECORDS 14TH TEST BY RUSSIA

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Russia today fired its 14th fallout producing nuclear bomb since it resumed testing on Sept. 1.

Announcement of the latest Soviet blast in the atmosphere was made here by the Atomic Energy Commission.

THE AEC said it was set off early today in the vicinity of Novaya Zemlya and had a yield of about a megaton, or equal to a million tons of TNT.

JAPAN THEORY

New Type Bomb Exploded?

TOKYO (AP)—A university professor in Niigata, 180 miles northwest of Tokyo, said today Russia may have detonated a new type of nuclear bomb in its current test series.

Professor Seitaro Koyama of the science faculty said the presumption is based on the fact that uranium-238 found in nuclear bombs before was not detected in "hot" rain that fell over Niigata last weekend, the newspaper Yomiuri reported.

A sharp increase of radioactivity was recorded in rain that fell in Niigata last weekend, Koyama said, but no uranium-238 was uncovered.

He said the new-type bomb may be the fifth detonated Sept. 10 in the current test series.

Meanwhile, Tokyo's meteorological agency said the highest amount of radioactivity since Russia began the current test series was detected in the air over Tokyo Sept. 18-19.

Japanese Send Protest

TOKYO (UPI)—Japan told the Soviet Union today the first signs of danger already have appeared in Japan as result of the Russians' testing of nuclear bombs in the current Russian series.

A note dispatched to the Kremlin said Japan "reserved the right to claim indemnity for all damage which may be suffered by the Japanese government and people." The note described the Soviet tests as "reckless."

The note prodded the Soviet Union to reply to the Japanese protest of Sept. 2 against Russia's decision to resume nuclear tests and said "there is an extremely great possibility" Japan will suffer ill effects.

East Germany Readies Draft

BERLIN (UPI)—The East German parliament today unanimously approved a "blank cheque" law authorizing the Communist regime to draft East Germans into the army or any other service in the "defence of the state."

Dief Waits Arms Talk Outcome

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker said today national security will be the over-riding consideration in the government's decision on whether to acquire nuclear warheads for Canadian forces in Canada.

He added in the Commons that no decision has been taken by the government and that speculation to the contrary is based on nothing more than the views of those who want the government to take a final stand.

This speculation did not take into full regard the international situation.

Mr. Diefenbaker also said important Western disarmament proposals will be laid before the United Nations General Assembly by the United States.

It was hoped the proposals would bring about a new attitude in the disarmament field, he added.

EXPECT DELAY

The statement led to immediate speculation that Canada will not make a decision on nuclear weapons at least until after a disarmament discussion in the UN.

Mr. Diefenbaker was replying to questions by Opposition Leader Pearson concerning Washington reports that President Kennedy has written a personal letter to the prime minister concerning nuclear policy.

Mr. Diefenbaker said he does not intend to refer to any personal correspondence. Discussions were going on "at all times at all levels."

But no agreement had been arrived at on nuclear weapons. Any rumor to the contrary had no foundation in fact.

CAN TAKE A-WEAPONS

Canada had undertaken to increase its conventional forces and the government had said nuclear warheads would be obtained if required for national security. The Bomarc anti-aircraft missile and Voodoo jet interceptor were capable of carrying nuclear warheads.

Mr. Diefenbaker then said the defensive requirements of Canada and the need for the preservation of the nation's security would be the over-riding consideration in the government's decision.

Mr. Pearson asked for a Commons discussion on the matter before the decision was taken by the government.

Mr. Diefenbaker said this would be a denial of the responsibility of government. However, the government would ask for Commons support of any decision taken.

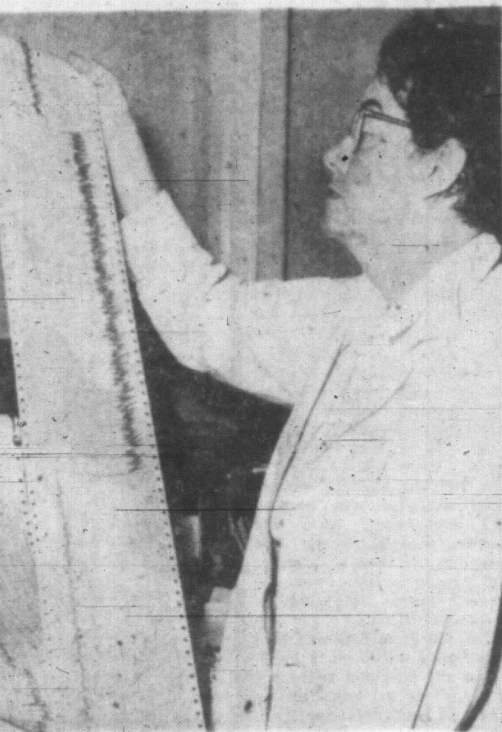

Cease-Fire In Katanga

NDOLA, Northern Rhodesia (UPI)—President Moise Tshombe of the Katanga announced tonight that he and United Nations negotiators had agreed on a provisional cease-fire to become effective at one minute after midnight.

Tshombe's announcement to a news conference at Ndola Airport came after a day of negotiations in which each side gloomily hinted at failure and an outbreak of civil war. Central Congolese government troops had been reported invading the province.

Tshombe held two days of talks with UN negotiator Mahmoud Khari, a Tunisian who flew here from Leopoldville after the death of UN Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld in a plane crash Sunday night. The Tshombe-Khari agreement must be ratified by UN headquarters.

Earlier, Tshombe had given the United Nations an ultimatum to come up with new proposals by nightfall to end the fighting in Katanga or face further bitter fighting.

LOW LEVEL HERE

Radiation level on the West Coast is far below that of Toronto, where counts taken Sunday and Monday were the highest since Canada started taking air samples two years ago. Continuous record kept at Pacific Naval Laboratory on machine operated by Constance Hodges today shows radiation about 10 times what it was prior to Russia's resumption of nuclear testing, but less than a quarter of what it was during "big tests" of 1953, and far below the 470 units reported at Toronto by Health Minister J. Waldo Monteith. The PNL records also show a gradual drop-off from a peak reached here last Wednesday and Thursday, which may indicate that any fallout "cloud" crossing the Arctic Circle has moved well to the east. SLIM UN PRESIDENT

Dag Successor Still in Air

UNITED NATIONS (CP)—The United Nations General Assembly quickly elected Tunisian delegate Mongi Slim as its president today, but no agreement was in sight on the critical problem of choosing a successor to the late Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld.

The moderate North African received all 96 votes cast after Indonesian Ambassador Ali Sastroamidjojo had withdrawn from the race.

He took over the chair from the outgoing president, Frederick H. Boland of Ireland.

Slim referred at once to the death of Hammarskjöld, which has overshadowed the normally routine organizational procedure at the opening meetings of the current assembly.

'SHINING EXAMPLE'

"The shining example that Mr. Hammarskjöld has given us should be an inspiration to all of us in this assembly," Slim said.

Slim is expected to play a major role in the efforts now going on to work out a temporary arrangement to keep the office of secretary-general operating.

Western diplomats have been pushing a move to have him chosen as interim secretary-general, but he is reported cool to the idea. Boland also has been urged to take over the post, but he also is said to be reluctant.

Whatever temporary arrangement is made, diplomats believe, probably will have to be done without Soviet support.

Andrei Gromyko, Soviet foreign minister, indicated that the Kremlin will settle for nothing less than a three-man "troika" secretariat to run the world organization. The

'TROIKA' OPPOSED BY CANADA

OTTAWA (UPI)—Canada flatly rejects the Soviet Union's proposal for a three-man "troika" to succeed the late United Nations secretary-general Dag Hammarskjöld, Prime Minister Diefenbaker said today.

He said adoption of the troika system would mean "nothing controversial or unacceptable to the U.S.S.R. could ever be done by the United Nations."

U.S., Russia Agree On Arms 'Principles'

UNITED NATIONS (CP)—United States and Russia reported to the United Nations today that they have failed to reach agreement on a formula for resuming disarmament negotiations but they have agreed on a statement of principle to guide negotiations.

The joint statement of principle puts emphasis on "disbanding of armed forces" of all nations and "elimination of all stockpiles of nuclear, chemical, bacteriological and other weapons of mass destruction." Also declared to be among the aims of total disarmament are the elimination of "all means of delivery" of mass destruction weapons and the abolition of all military training institutions.

RESCUES POLICEMAN

This Burglar a 'Softie'

LONDON (AP)—Constable David Jones told the court he was chasing three men across the London rooftops "when all of a sudden a skylight gave way beneath me."

"Yes," said the magistrate, "go on."

"I plunged downwards," he explained the policeman, "but I managed to grasp a piece of the roof framework."

"And then?"

Jones pointed to Harry Crouch in the dock.

"That one," said the constable, "stopped, came back to where I was dangling and told me, 'all right, guv, I can't leave you to fall through. I give up.'"

"He caught hold of me even though the glass above us was breaking. He nearly went through the roof too."

Jones, who weighs more than 200 pounds, said Crouch hung on to him until other constables arrived. "Police had collapsed the other two men."

"There was nothing I could do but arrest him," said the policeman.

"And there's nothing I can do but send them all for trial," said the magistrate.

He intimated that Crouch's consideration for the policeman would be taken into consideration when the three go on trial charged with breaking and entering.

Toronto has th' highest radioactivity count in th' country, but I bet th' rest of us c'd do better if we really tried.

Can't tell whether the transfer o' B.C. Electric funds comes under th' headin' of Wayward Bus or A Streetcar Named Desire.

Bid to Link Churches At Showdown Stage

DETROIT (AP)—A crucial test neared today on a monumental proposal for uniting four major Christian denominations into a single church "truly Catholic, truly reformed and truly evangelical."

The House of Bishops at the triennial general convention of the Episcopal Anglican church set a full day of sessions for action on the matter.

"We're in for considerable debate on it," said Bishop Henry L. Louth of Orlando, Fla., chairman of the house's committee for dispatch of business.

Before the church-governing convocation is a recommendation by its unity commission to approve merger negotiations with the United Presbyterians, Methodists and the United Church of Christ.

Altogether, they have nearly 20,000,000 members.

Moves also were afoot to include the Polish National Catholic Church.

But whether the plan actually gets under way hinged heavily on action by the Episcopal Church, which clings to ancient Catholic concepts not found in other strictly Protestant bodies.

Anglican "high church" forces have mounted a full-scale assault on the plan, saying it would mean "sacrifice of essential principle," concerning the church's sacraments and historic succession.

Episcopalians trace the ordination of their bishops and clergy back to the apostles through the "laying on of hands" from one generation to another and stress Christ's real spiritual presence in the Lord's supper.

These are Catholic qualities, not characteristic of Protestantism generally. But Episcopalians also hold the Protestant traditions, such as democratic church government, and the Bible as the rule of faith.

Bird said he was unable to compare the rate in Canada with those in other countries because they used different computations. He said the levels were about the same.

Dr. E. A. Watkinson, principal medical officer for environmental research, concurred in his colleague's assessment of lack of immediate danger. "We are not suggesting that the level pose a health hazard at this time," he said.

Spaak Hopeful

Spaak was expected to make public in the West details of his meeting Tuesday with Khrushchev in the Kremlin where he went at the Soviet leader's invitation.

A Belgian embassy source said that Spaak was "hopeful and encouraged" after the meeting with Khrushchev and indicated the Russian premier had introduced some "new elements" into the East-West disputes over Berlin.

The source said it was possible Spaak would go to Paris before the weekend to report to NATO of his talk. Spaak is former NATO secretary-general.

New Civil Service Act Given Third Reading

(From Times News Service)

OTTAWA—Third and final reading was scheduled to be given today in the Commons to a new Civil Service Act, affecting some 135,000 federal employees across Canada.

The act, representing the first major overhaul of civil service legislation since 1939, sailed through clause-by-clause study Tuesday night in committee of the whole House. It had already been given second reading—approval in principle.

Committee approval of the new Civil Service Act followed defeat of a long series of amendments proposed by the Liberal opposition dealing with such matters as bargaining rights for civil servants, veterans' preferences in job competitions, and whether bilingual persons should be given an advantage over other candidates for federal positions.

CCF members backed most of the Liberal amendments, which were snowed under by the top-heavy government majority.

However, when the CCF proposed an amendment calculated to water down a ban on political activity by civil servants, it was opposed by the Liberals as well as the Conservatives.

'Political Eunuchs', CCFer Claims

Frank Howard (CCF—Skeena), sponsor of the amendment, said retention of the ban makes "political eunuchs" out of civil servants. The Commons was being asked to condone "apathy by statute" among the nation's biggest single group of employees.

The vote was 53 to 3 against the amendment, with only CCF members voting in favor.

Another brisk debate took place on an amendment proposed by Alex Caron (L—Hull) which would have given extra marks to bilingual candidates in civil service job competitions. The amendment was defeated 43 to 16.

Mr. Caron, whose Quebec riding across the Ottawa River from the capital contains thousands of federal civil servants, also proposed an amendment whereby veterans who served in Canada during the war would be given limited preference in filling federal positions.

It was defeated 57 to 11. Under Mr. Caron's proposal veterans who served in Canada would be given an extra five per cent after their examinations had been marked.

It would not affect the general preference given overseas veterans—and retained in the present act—but would simply offer "a slight advantage in the case of those who enlisted with the intention of going overseas but never had the chance to go."

Still another Liberal amendment would have provided arbitration machinery for situations where the government and the civil service staff associations cannot agree on pay scales or working conditions.

Proposed by Jean T. Richard (L—Ottawa East), it went down 42 to 10.

Mortgages Stopped for Mine Homes

The government will not risk any more of the taxpayers' money on housing loans in new northern mining centres, Works Minister Walker told the Commons.

He said mining companies which create new towns around northern developments will have to guarantee the mortgages for employees' homes.

Mr. Walker cited the case of Elliot Lake, the Northern Ontario uranium community now in a sharp economic decline because of mine shutdowns. Several hundred mortgages held by government agencies have been defaulted there.

In future, he said, companies should have enough faith in their developments to bear the mortgage load on homes. "It is the company and not the Canadian taxpayer who should bear the risk."

The MacPherson royal commission on transportation is expected to make its second report this fall, Prime Minister Diefenbaker said.

The third volume of the MacPherson report will be issued "shortly thereafter," he said. Mr. Diefenbaker was replying to Lionel Chevrier (L—Montreal Laurier).

The commission, headed by Regina lawyer M. A. MacPherson, made a two-year study of railways and freight rates in Canada.

The Commons debated for the second time this session a bill to provide for the dissolution and annulment of marriages in Canada.

As happened the first time, last Dec. 8, the bill sponsored by Arnold Peters (CCF—Timiskaming) failed to come to a

RONNIE STANFORD kidnapper

'He Wanted To Impress Somebody'

FORT WORTH, Tex. (UPI)—An 11-year-old boy, who belonged to the Boy Scouts and made A's in the sixth grade, kidnapped a 40-year-old man at the point of a shotgun today and ordered him to drive to Mexico in a truck.

The boy is Ronnie Stanford; the man he kidnapped is Alton Compton. Forty miles west of Fort Worth, while Ronnie was glancing at a passing car, Compton jammed his fingers behind the trigger of the shotgun and stopped the truck.

Ronnie could not pull the trigger, so he jumped out and ran. Sheriff Coy Carter later captured him on the banks of the Brazos River.

Carter said Ronnie told him he wanted to go to Mexico and had planned to kidnap Compton for about a week. He left his Boy Scout manual with a highway map in it in the Compton family hardware store.

"He said he had seen a lot of things like this on TV," Carter said. "I got the idea he just wanted to impress somebody."

Gromyko Sees Rusk Thursday

UNITED NATIONS (AP)—State Secretary Dean Rusk and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko will meet Thursday in the first of a series of showtown talks on the crucial East-West dispute over Berlin and the parallel crisis in the United Nations.

Rusk is reported to have decided on a stern approach to the talks, including a warning to the Soviet government against believing "that the United States and its allies will be bluffed or frightened into surrendering their Berlin rights or their stake in the United Nations."

The secretary is said to believe that the choice of war or peace over Berlin now is up to Premier Khrushchev and that a soft approach to Gromyko, centred on an appeal for co-operation in working out the world's problems, might do more harm than good to hopes for a peaceful settlement.

When Rusk and Gromyko attended the brief opening session of the UN General Assembly Tuesday, U.S. diplomat Charles E. Bohlen extended through Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Valerian Zorin an invitation for Gromyko to lunch with Rusk Thursday.

U.S. officials disclosed that Gromyko accepted the invitation for 1 p.m. Both will be accompanied by several advisers.

U.S. authorities expect a series of talks while the two foreign ministers are in New York during the next week or so. They were not optimistic about any better U.S.-Soviet understanding even at the end of the series.

These informants said the Soviet government has shown no sign whatever of easing its pressures on Berlin or modifying its essential demands for a change in the structure of the United Nations.

U.S. to Give France Atomic Information

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The House Tuesday night approved by voice vote an agreement to let the United States exchange secret information on the training of French forces in the use of atomic weapons.

The agreement, if approved by the Senate, would go into effect immediately. It ordinarily would have taken effect after 60 days. But President Kennedy asked that the waiting period be waived because of the Berlin crisis and other world tensions.

Under the agreement, the United States would be permitted to exchange classified information on atomic weapons use and defence. Information on atomic weapons production would not be involved.

The agreement also would provide for the transfer of non-nuclear parts of U.S. atomic weapon systems to improve the training and readiness of French military forces assigned to NATO.

BRITISH SCHOOL CHILDREN GET 'BONUS' HOLIDAY

LONDON (Reuters) — More than 1,000,000 British school children got a "bonus" holiday today when the 26,000-member National Association of Schoolmasters staged a 24-hour token strike. More than 1,000 schools were affected. The strike backed a call for an independent inquiry into the machinery for negotiating teachers' salaries.

No Time for a Stalemate

THERE SEEMS TO BE ONE clear and satisfactory attribute of all three of the men who now are foremost in West German politics: all are well disposed toward the West. There may be other points on which they agree, but if each maintains his present position with respect to the others there is little prospect of an easy solution to the problem posed by the recent general election results.

One of the first effects may be Konrad Adenauer's loss of the chancellorship he has held for the past 12 years. While his Christian Democrats are still the largest party in the Parliament they have lost the overall majority they held. To retain power the party must form a coalition with either the Social Democrats of Berlin Mayor Willy Brandt or the Free Democrats of Dr. Erich Mende.

Dr. Adenauer says he will have no dealings with Mr. Brandt. He must therefore turn to Dr. Mende. But the latter says he will not serve under Dr. Adenauer, although he would be agreeable to a coalition under Ludwig Erhard, Dr. Adenauer's economics minister.

It was just over a year ago that Dr. Adenauer and Mr. Erhard patched up a quarrel with an agreement that the latter could eventually succeed Dr. Adenauer as chancellor. But the iron man of post-war West Germany no doubt thought of the succession as following his own death, not as the result of political rejection.

The Parliament must choose a chancellor when it meets in mid-October. Whether by then Dr. Adenauer can effect an agreement with Dr. Mende is neither clear nor likely. It could be that time has taken its toll and Dr. Adenauer will have to move to the sidelines although he had appeared to be determined, at the age of 85, to die in office.

On the plus side for him is the fact that his party has urged him to seek to retain the office of chancellor and assured him of support in forming a coalition with the Free Democrats. But Dr. Mende will have the deciding voice in that coalition move, and so far he has been adamant against co-operation with the present Christian Democrat leader.

The chief danger, not only to the Bonn Republic but to the West, which relies on a strong ally, will be if all this leads to a stalemate in control and a consequent stalemate in policies and achievement. With the Berlin crisis providing tension and the danger of war, this is no time for West Germany to be politically paralyzed as France, for instance, has been on occasion due to lack of a parliamentary majority to enforce government decisions.

This may demand a higher statesmanship in the German leaders than would normally be called for—statesmanship to the point of curbing personal ambition in favor of the common good.

The next few weeks will see. They may well be tense ones for Bonn's allies, as they will be for the republic itself.

New Report Cards

SCHOOL REPORT CARDS, A subject that has exercised the attention of probably every PTA in the province and of a lot of parents who don't go to PTA meetings, have been revised for the new school year.

"The present revised form is an honest attempt to meet the purpose of informing parents of their child's progress in relation to grade standards and give them some idea of his behaviour and work habits," says the announcement containing notice of changes.

This seems reasonable. It has been this newspaper's constant contention that reports should mean something to the people receiving them.

In the revised form, teachers are permitted, though not forced, to give percentages in the higher classes. Previously letter grades were used. But whether the percentages will define to the parent's satisfaction where the child stands in relation to others of his class in a given subject or in total marks is not clear. Much, it seems, will be left to the option of the school principal.

Conceivably this may mark a partial return to an old system which allowed a person to know where his child was ranked in class, at the top or at the bottom or at some definite place between.

Many objections have been raised by educators to this definite fixing of a child's position in class. How, asked those opposed to the old plan, could a person be sure that all teachers would mark uniformly, or how could various subjects be covered with equal fairness by marks from 1 to 100?

How far the new report goes toward answering such questions remains to be seen. But, to an increasing number of people, it appears desirable that report cards should reflect an element of competition in scholarship—opponents say a competition for marks—in the classroom.

The fact remains that when children move out of school into various fields of activity they face stiff competition. Getting used to it in school might help to prepare them for that experience in later life.

The function of a report card should be to inform the parent on those points on which he wants information, not just on what a school teacher or system thinks he ought to be told.

Nearing the Deadline

RESIGNATION of the city's centennial committee co-ordinator because of frustration has put plans for an adequate celebration next year in a precarious position. It seems to be another instance of the same old problem that has afflicted city hall for the past few years—inability to decide, inability to act.

Various problems have been delayed endlessly while aldermen hesitate to come to decisions, or change their minds when the point has been resolved. When a young man with ideas was placed in the midst of this environment, it was natural that he would find himself driven to distraction.

But regardless of what has happened, the city now faces the question of what will happen. The time for centennial planning is running dangerously short, yet there is little that has been brought to the concrete planning stage. What do we do now?

As one famous cartoonist had a character say of British Prime Minister Macmillan at a time of crisis: "The way I understand it, he's going to stop muckin' about and start muddin' through."

That might be excellent advice in the local sphere.

A Vacuum for Youth

MR. CHARLES P. LIVERMORE, whose duty it is to oversee the community needs of Chicago's youth, offers a comment on the "vacuum" confronting the younger generation.

Speaking in terms related to Chicago but applicable elsewhere, he says:

"The West Side gang member faces a broken home. The North Shore youth is shipped off to a boarding school. They both are deprived of responsible contact with adults—too often they have no fatherly attention—from which they learn the restraints that come from loving and being loved by a responsible adult world."

Which is another way of emphasizing the point that the good home is the best protection against delinquency, and that it is not always only the children of poor people who are underprivileged.

Not Due for 'The Shelf'

MR. A. M. NICHOLSON, Saskatchewan social welfare minister, has joined that group of Canadians which does valuable service in urging continued activity for the aging.

When a person reaches 80, he says, there is no reason to put him "on the shelf" if he still possesses his faculties.

"We should develop programs," adds the minister, "where people over 65, who are in good health, can continue to work and contribute to a better life."

Mr. Nicholson can count on widespread support for his proposal. It might also be suggested that one of the earliest programs of the sort might engage people of 65, who are in good health, to work and contribute to programs of this nature for their contemporaries.

I'm Afraid I'm Already Spoken For

A LOOK AROUND

By B. A. TOBIN

Your Choice of Scenery

AN article in a recent New York Times Magazine discusses the desirability of keeping "the best of New York"—retaining some of the older buildings which, through architectural style, tradition or beauty enhance the metropolitan scene and complement the new structures. That is a particularly pertinent question in the big city, for many a building which we would consider comparatively new has been torn down to enable a still bigger one to be erected. And ancient edifices valued for one reason or another have frequently had to make way for skyscrapers. The city changes rapidly.

While our problem is a little different from that of New York, we still have one. It would be an interesting exercise in citizenry for each of us to look around the town and select the buildings which we feel ought to be retained at any cost, and those which we would willingly see replaced by new ones.

Such a review by any individual would be at once a criticism of the city and a criticism of the viewer. In revealing his choices he no doubt would reveal more of himself than he might suspect.

Much of the choice, of course, would be based on emotion. Buildings with personal memories attached, even though the structures were poor in appearance, would no doubt rate high on the preservation list. And pure sentiment may a time would insist that a building be kept, simply because it was familiar and an inherent part of "home" and memories.

Great Variety

Naturally, there would be a great variety of lists, and while the results of a total census-taking would be very interesting it is questionable whether it would lead to any definite trend apart from a few stand-out favorites.

Many a building would be found to have "absence value." Never actually seen as the resident goes by it each day, it yet has become a part of his life and as such would be defended and retained—so that he could go on ignoring it.

There would be, too, the question of replacement. Some buildings, while not prime favorites of the observer, might be preferred to the unknown which would take its place. Better to have a big passive blob on the landscape, which can be ignored, he would say, than to have to suffer an aggressive, thrusting creation that would demand your attention and your judgment every time you passed it.

While many people might vote to remove any particular building in order that a more acceptable one could be put there, not so many might be inclined to remove a building because of what the removal would disclose—that is, the view.

In a setting such as Victoria's there are few parts of the city from which a glimpse of the hills or the Olympics cannot be obtained. But many a building, unimpressive in itself, hides a view that could be assessed at ten times the value of the man-made block.

A building might fairly raise the question: Did someone actually put this here on purpose? It seems difficult to believe that it would have been done in quite that way if some outside factors had not robbed the builder of choice. Finances could be one answer to that situation, but the truth is that extra money has often been expended to create the very features which detract from the building and its neighborhood.

Changing Scene

And neighborhood environments change, so that a building that was suitable at one time or in one neighborhood is far from acceptable in others.

The city council has awakened recently to discover that the atmosphere of the Belleville-Douglas area has changed. And in only twelve months, as one alderman points out.

This is apparently regarded as a manifestation equal to the rolling, inexorable force of the tides. It's a comforting thought, but of course it is nonsense. For in this case the council is not the victim but the aider and abettor of the change. Through its repudiation of the true meaning of its own zoning and other bylaws it has brought about the very change which it now recognizes as having happened.

A small part of the city which had a chance to become a favored spot, is now losing that chance as the commercial environment engulfs it.

That may be good business, as still others say, but good business must recognize that everything has a cost. And, the loss of civic attractiveness, beauty, charm, atmosphere—call it what you will—can be the most expensive cost a community may bear.

Recognizing Local Talent

With the summer season of outdoor sports and other attractive entertainments brought to a close at the end of August, we are reminded in reading a Victoria-Symphony winter season concert program that more local talent is being recognized than in previous years apart from the return visit of Robin Wood.

The Victoria Symphony is doing good work on behalf of the community along these lines and we trust in the not too distant future another local talented artist who is at present studying at the Royal Academy of Music, London, England, will in due course receive similar recognition.

Negotiate to Surrender?

AFTER a dankly gloomy meeting with the Western foreign ministers, Secretary of State Dean Rusk is proceeding to New York, to try to find out from Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko whether there is any chance for useful, honorable negotiation about Berlin. Maybe the favoring climate of the United Nations will bring forth a semi-miracle. Or maybe Gromyko will persuade Rusk to negotiate in circumstances which will be neither honorable nor likely to produce a good result. But if neither of these things happens—and the latter is even more unlikely than the former—the Rusk mission seems foredoomed to sterility.

The first factor threatening the Secretary of State's mission was long ago foreseen by Rusk's unofficial, presidentially-chosen coadjutor for the duration of the Berlin crisis, former Secretary of State Dean G. Acheson.

Secret Report

In the famous secret report which is the real basis of the American approach to the Berlin problem, Acheson is known to have offered a particularly chilling definition of Soviet aims.

Since every Soviet move is always made with minimum and maximum objectives clearly in mind, Acheson unavoidably conceded the existence of a number of different Soviet aims. But he grimly pooch-pooched the small change of diplomacy—such as recognition of the Oder-Neisse Line, to name only one example—with which so many people have hoped to satisfy Nikita S. Khrushchev.

Khrushchev, Acheson said in effect, might be satisfied with such small change if brutally persuaded that there was no hope of more. But Khrushchev's primary aim, so Acheson insisted, was to force the kind of American back-down at Berlin which would show the whole world that he had broken the will of the United States.

Any such public failure of American will under Soviet pressure would of course lead on, with terrible rapidity, to the loss of a whole series of vital American and Western positions all over the world, and it would also cause the effective dissolution of the Western Alliance itself. Thus the Acheson report argued that Khrushchev was playing for the highest imaginable stakes in the world-game.

In the uneasy weeks since the Acheson report was presented to the National Security Council and accepted by the President, every detail of the way Khrushchev has played the game has tended to confirm Acheson's judgment.

By borrowing his tactics from Adolf Hitler, and by improving considerably on the master as well, Khrushchev has done everything possible to rule out honorable negotiation.

After so many threats, any negotiation at all will appear to be negotiation at the point of a gun; and any concession at all will appear to be a concession weakly given under threat.

Secretary Rusk's mission cannot succeed, at least on the announced basis, unless Khrushchev is again willing to swallow his past threats, in the way he swallowed his threats after the Camp David meeting as part of his deal with President Eisenhower for a summit conference.

Public threat-swallowing by Khrushchev would indeed be a semi-miracle at this juncture. In addition, the Berlin problem itself has evolved in a way that increases the difficulty.

President Eisenhower may have been going a bit far, the other day, when he said he could see "nothing to be negotiated." But in the present situation there is certainly precious little that can be safely negotiated.

Using only the most obvious illustration, the de facto recognition of East Germany which so many people think will satisfy Khrushchev, has by now been rendered unthinkable by Khrushchev himself. Or at least it has been rendered unthinkable for anyone who does not wish to allow Khrushchev the kind of shattering political triumph which the Acheson report defined as the Soviet boss's primary aim.

Terror Tactics

For if this allegedly "realistic" concession is offered under pressure of Khrushchev's terror tactics, the eyes of the world will now see the concession as proof that Khrushchev has in fact broken America's will.

What then is to be negotiated? The question is all but unanswerable in the present context. But if there is so little room for negotiation left at Berlin, what then is to be done when this seemingly unending crisis reaches its climax, as may happen at any moment?

For the first time in America, one or two voices are beginning to be heard, arguing that what ought to be done is to surrender. Their arguments will not commend themselves to many Americans; yet what may be called the practical, political morals of this fearful question genuinely deserve investigation. This will be attempted in another report.

FROM BERLIN

By MARK ARNOLD-FORSTER

Encroachments, One by One

THE muted report of the 10th bomb in Mr. Khrushchev's current series reached West Berlin with dreadful punctuality, hard on the heels of two errant West German fighters, which landed illegally or—as the East German government puts it—"with monstrous provocation," on the French airfield at Tegel.

From Mr. Khrushchev's point of view their apparently bewildered pilots could scarcely have chosen a better time to get lost and run out of petrol.

Blundering home from manoeuvres, they were talked down through murky overcast just in time to prove to the UN General Assembly that Khrushchev's East German admirers may well have been right in almost everything they have said since they built their famous wall.

There is, of course, no proof that these misguided pilots are "revanchist, Hitlerite warmongers," though the East German propagandists have already drawn their own conclusions.

'Careless Lot'

On the other hand, their presence 120 miles east of the Iron Curtain seems to confirm the East German contention that Dr. Adenauer's armed forces are, to say the least, a careless lot, whose errors could at any time turn the cold war hot.

The arrival of the Luftwaffe's wandering F-84 jets, the first German warplanes to land in Berlin since Goering's day, was untimely on two counts—first, because their unwanted presence at Tegel seems to confirm so much of Mr. Khrushchev's propaganda about the West German armed forces, and secondly, because they contravened blatantly, though mistakenly, the "inter-allied agreements about Berlin's three vital air corridors. And they did so just when these agreements are more precious and important to the West than at any time since 1948.

The right to fly unhindered across East Germany is virtually the only Western privilege which the Russians have not yet managed to impair.

Without it, West Berlin could not sustain itself or be sustained. And the Russians know this. Absolutely anyone—says the East German government—agitors, imperialists and spies, can now fly unimpeded by "the competent East German authorities" into the West-Berlin airfields at Tempelhof and Tegel, into the very heart of what they claim to be their own capital city.

This traffic, say the East German authorities, must stop, and they know perfectly well that if it did West Berlin would be strangled.

Unwilling Helpers

Mr. Khrushchev's propagandists had other unwilling helpers last week besides the Luftwaffe. The most powerful outside assistance came from four foreign civilians, arrested by the People's Police on charges of attempting to smuggle persons from East into West Berlin.

The alleged abduction of East German citizens by Western "slave traders" is an activity which, the East German government says, made it necessary to divide this city physically by building a wall along the sector boundaries.

A foreigner's right to move freely between the two parts of Berlin has been restricted in the last month to one crossing place in the U.S. sector instead of 82, serving all three Western sectors. So far foreign visitors have been allowed through the multiplying inspections (there are now three police checks and one by the customs at the Friedrichstrasse elevated railway station) without serious delay.

They have also, so far, been allowed to move freely through the eastern part of what is still supposed by the Western Powers to be a city under Allied control.

The arrest by the People's Police of the four foreign nationals may well foreshadow further restrictions, but if the Western Powers try to resist them now they will be on weak ground, for they have conceded much already.

First Encroachment

The first major encroachment on their authority since the blockade of 1948 came with the proclamation of the East German State in 1949, and the announcement that its capital would be Berlin.

In 1950 it demanded and received the right to levy special tolls on German traffic on the autobahn from here to the West. In 1951 it cut the telephone connections between East and West Berlin. In 1955 it raised the autobahn tolls and announced that control over allied traffic belonged to the East German State but would be exercised "temporarily" by the Russians.

In 1956, for the first time, it brought units of its army into East Berlin for a May Day parade and in 1957 declared, jointly with the Russians, that the inter-allied agreement about the air corridors was provisional and limited, and did not affect the air sovereignty of the East German State.

The latest concession, and one of the most serious, was the Western Powers' acceptance of the East German wall. What began as an admission of moral defeat by the East German regime—the wall was built to keep in reluctant citizens, not to keep out invaders—has become what looks like a moral defeat for the West.

Without Effect

Western protests against the division of what is supposed to be a single city under shared control seem to have no effect. To the Berliners, anyway, it looks as if the wall is there to stay.

None of these encroachments—some formal, some actual—seemed important enough at the time to warrant a specially firm Western stand. But each concession was a gain for the Russians and their East German friends, and the sum of them all amounts to a considerable retreat by the Western Powers from the position they thought they had established in 1945.

If the unwelcome intervention by the Luftwaffe should make the maintenance of the air corridors difficult or impossible, the Berliners may well have cause for alarm.

Seriously, when he said at the 18th hole of Glen Eagles golf course that the Berlin crisis was an invention of the press. On the other hand, they are now becoming more and more inclined to think Mr. Khrushchev is in earnest this time. The echo of his bombs has made them wonder what he can be up to now. For he seems to be risking deliberately the displeasure of many of his friends.

As the radioactivity increases here (the reading on Wednesday was 1,000 picocuries per litre of rainwater as compared with an average of 14 picocuries in August) it begins to look from the Berliners' view as if Khrushchev means business.

Tradition—and They're French

WHEN I was a boy I once invested two bits—a large part of my personal fortune—in a hockey year book. The dividends were fantastic. In our district I became the acknowledged authority on all phases of the sport.

Let the other kids wrangle and dispute over the merits of a player or team and I was called in to deliver judgment. With records, statistics and biographies supporting me, none challenged my findings.

Through a picture in the edition I became acquainted with and a fan of the Montreal Canadiens.

Stott

Not that the Flying Frenchmen displaced my local heroes. I was staunchly loyal to the Victoria Aristocrats, had my mother cut out from a piece of cloth the number assigned to Gizzy Hart and persuaded her to sew it on my sweater. In that sweater, and on a pair of roller skates with wheels worn down to the washers, I played for the Epsil Bay hockey team on what used to be Mills Street.

I also walked, with the gang up Foul Bay Road to the arena every Friday night in the season to cheer Gizzy. When we failed to get in by subterfuge, admission cost a quarter—which proved my devotion to the team.

But the Flying Frenchmen retained a considerable piece of my affection. And once, for fleeting minutes, I saw them play. Things were tough that night. I had no quarter and they were keeping a close watch on all doors. Still a skinny kid who perseveres long enough makes the grade and I squeezed in for part of the third period.

That night ended gloriously. I was hanging over the boards when Gizzy Hart sailed down, whipped up his stick and inadvertently hit me on the forehead, cutting me above the brow. Fancy, wounded at the height of playoff hockey—and by Gizzy's own stick. That was distinction.

We whupped the Canadiens in that series, but they still had magic for me—still do when I watch them on the small screen at home Saturday nights in the winter.

There's a lot of kid left in me when it comes to the Canadiens—and a slightly more mature admiration for the organization which puts the team together.

I watched them scrimmaging, at the Memorial Arena the other day and asked a few tube questions.

Having seen Toe Blake skate through the practice game in cap, windbreaker and slacks, with a hockey stick and a whistle but seldom a word for the players, I wanted to know what the coaches taught their charges early in the training season.

Gently, I was told by Ken Reardon that you don't teach them much. When they get to training camp with the Flying Frenchmen, they have to know their hockey. If they don't, they don't get that far.

Then what were the coaches looking for?

Well, there were a couple of places in the team where the club needed strength. The coaches were sizing up the available material. And then you never knew, after the summer lay-off, how the players would shape up. Some of the older ones—the veteran is 34—might have slowed down a little. The younger ones might have filled out, gained a little more strength, developed a little more confidence, become better hockey players.

That's what you looked for, better hockey players. There isn't room for complacency on a top-notch team, even when the club may be paying five of its boys $20,000 or better.

Did the organization have any particular trouble with young fellows so far away from the influences of home? Not much. The real pros, working for a club like the Canadiens, have too much at stake to cut up rough outside.

The club has certain rules. The boys wear suits and ties while their Canadiens off the ice. They go to church on Sunday by club instruction and they're reminded that they are part of an organization with a lot of self-respect.

Also, they're out to win national approval as the national team—a point disputed by a certain NHL organization.

And where do they acquire the flair that makes them distinctive in league play? Maybe because they're French, maybe because of their tradition.

It all adds up to good sense and a great hockey club.

Jamaica Rejects Federation

KINGSTON, Jamaica (CP)—The new West Indies federation, created by Britain to form a chain of free islands in the Caribbean, lost its largest and wealthiest member today after Jamaica voted to withdraw.

The vote in a referendum Tuesday was 251,776 in favor of withdrawal and 216,371 against.

This weakened the position of Prime Minister Norman Manley of Jamaica, who campaigned for federation with the other British islands stretching down to the coast of South America.

The argument against federation, led by Sir Alexander Bustamante's opposition Labor party, was that it would lower Jamaica's standard of living. He also said Jamaica would be inadequately represented in the new federation government.

Jamaica's 1,700,000 people comprise about 56 per cent of the federation's population. Tourism, bauxite mining and rising industrialization make them the federation's most prosperous.

REGRETS DECISION

In a radio address, Manley expressed regret at the decision "which defeats what I believe to be the only safe road for Jamaica."

In another radio address, Bustamante said "we are determined to rule ourselves." Calling charges that Jamaica might turn to a Cuban brand of Communism as "a fantastic lie," he said "we must have independence for Jamaica within the British Commonwealth."

Secession will allow Jamaica to seek membership as an independent nation in the Commonwealth. The West Indian federation is scheduled to become independent and a member of the Commonwealth by next May 31.

The referendum followed an intense election campaign marked by occasional violence.

VIOLENCE FEARED

During the voting Tuesday, police throughout the island were placed on the alert for possible trouble following demonstrations Monday night in which angry crowds stoned buses and broke up a campaign meeting.

Before the election results were announced, Sir Grantley Adams, prime minister of the federation, said in Bridgetown, Barbados, that federation without Jamaica would be a tragedy. But, he said, although he wanted Jamaica as a member this did not mean the island could "ride roughshod on the wishes of others."

The island has 17 of 45 seats in the present federation House of Representatives. In the new one it was to have 30 out of 64. Manley argued this increased representation, coupled with limitations on federal taxing powers, would have protected Jamaica's interests.

The other members are Trinidad, Barbados, Grenada, St. Lucia, St. Vincent, Dominica, Antigua, Montserrat, and St. Kitts. They also are to have self-determination referendums like Jamaica's.

Striving for a Lovely Picture

Most plants have a beauty of their own regardless of their garden background, but many benefit from association with others.

The art of landscaping is this idea, carried to the ultimate, yet each of us in a small area can, as associate plants by the trial method until we create some particularly lovely pictures.

With the many warm tones of fall flowers just coming into bloom, we can choose something unusual to start our garden picture gallery.

The soft pink, or crimson (according to variety), of the Kafir-lily, schizostylis, looks twice as charming when grown with the blue daisy-like flowers of Agathaea coelestis (now found as Felicia amelloides in catalogs).

SUN AND WATER

Both like a sunny spot all summer, and adequate watering, and both are late to bloom, but continue until almost Christmas if the weather remains mild.

The Kafir-lily is a perfectly hardy perennial plant, with narrow leaves and a spike of small flowers each the size of a quarter. They resemble a gladiolus, spike slightly, but the blossoms are opened out flat, instead of being hooded. Height is about 12 inches.

Felicia, sometimes called a blue marguerite, is not a winter hardy plant, but can be raised from cuttings in the same way as the yellow marguerite, or Paris-daisy, or seeds may be sown indoors in January, and planted out in June.

A little lower in height than Kafir-lily, felicia forms a bushy plant with dark green leaves, and the soft blue flowers are borne in profusion provided a sunny place is chosen.

As with the yellow marguerite, felicia needs an early start preferably by taking cuttings in October and carrying them over in a slightly heated greenhouse for winter. Growing them in four-inch pots will make fine plants for putting out in June.

Last Assizes For Old Courthouse

Fall Assizes of the B.C. Supreme Court will be held in the old Victoria courthouse for the last time starting Oct. 2.

The new courthouse on Cathedral Hill is expected to be opened next spring. Six trials will be down for hearing with Victoria lawyer William R. McIntyre as Crown prosecutor.

They include two cases of alleged attempted murder, one of defamatory libel, one of conspiracy to commit perjury, one of false pretences and one for alleged breaking and entering.

Castro Denounced

VATICAN CITY (UPI)—The Vatican City press and radio Tuesday denounced the Cuban government for deporting a bishop and 135 Roman Catholic priests, including nine Canadians, in terms indicating the church may be considering possible excommunication of Fidel Castro and other Cubans responsible.

GAITSKELL MEETS MAC

LONDON (UPI)—Prime Minister Macmillan agreed to meet Opposition Labor Party Leader Hugh Gaitskell today to discuss Laborite demands that Parliament be recalled from recess because of the "deteriorating" international situation.

Political sources said Gaitskell asked for the meeting after his party's leaders decided in a "shadow cabinet" meeting that Parliament should be recalled before the scheduled Oct. 24 end of its summer recess.

LEADING INDIA NEWSPAPER URGES:

Leave the Commonwealth

NEW DELHI (Reuters)—The Indian Express, India's biggest-circulation newspaper, urges India to leave the Commonwealth because of Britain's "attempted sabotage" of the UN operation in Katanga. Britain should be "arraigned" before the United Nations assembly, it says.

"There is a limit beyond which utter shamelessness cannot transgress and that limit has been reached. A dent must be made in Britain's insensitive armor and Whitehall must be brought to its senses."

Britain expressed her concern after UN troops in Katanga attempted to force the tempts at arranging a cease-breakaway province back into fire.

$360 Million Market Loss Claims Exporters' Chief

Times Business Editor

A chilling examination of what Britain's entry into the European Common Market could mean to Canadian exporters is being made this week in a speech at Charlottetown by R. D. L. Kinsman, president of the Canadian Exporters' Association. Mr. Kinsman estimates that Canada faces a loss of about $360 million, roughly 40 per cent of current sales in the U.K.

A further $370 million of Canadian sales would be rendered less profitable because of the need to absorb ECM tariff charges.

Least vulnerable point in Canadian exports to Britain and the ECM will be industrial raw materials, according to Mr. Kinsman, and these accounted for nearly half of Canadian sales to the U.K. last year. However, in raw materials such as lumber, asbestos, pulp and newsprint and aluminum—all important factors in B.C.'s economy—Mr. Kinsman anticipates losses will be heavy.

In agricultural and fisheries products, the outlook is more bleak with high tariffs and strict quotas a certainty. Losses in this area could be as high as $200,000,000 a year, as high as $200,000,000 a year.

Major reasons given in the survey for the cut in Canadian exports to the U.K. are: a drop of about 14 per cent in the Common Market, due to jump from $703 million this year to $739 million next year. Both manufacturing and petroleum industries are planning to cut back in Canada next year and step up Common Market budgets.

Added up, it represents complete loss of about $360 million in the total ECM market when Britain joins with a further $370,000,000 in U.K. business being made much less profitable.

Perhaps a more graphic way of stating it would be to say that approximately 15 per cent of Canada's total export trade will either vanish or be made only marginally profitable.

A heavy drop in U.S. investment in Canada appears slated for 1962, according to a McGraw-Hill survey of American company plans.

In fact U.S. foreign investment in general will be cut next year by about 4 per cent after jumping 22 per cent this year over last. However, Canada is due for the biggest cut, from $720 million this year to $670 million next year.

The board of directors of the Kukatash Mining Corporation (1960) Ltd. has announced the appointment of Allan Cavanagh MacDonald as president and chief executive officer of the company. Prior to accepting the new post, Mr. MacDonald resigned as executive vice-president of A. V. Roe Canada Ltd. Mr. MacDonald was formerly a director and vice chairman of Dominion Steel & Coal Corporation Ltd., a director and chairman of Canadian Car Company Ltd., Canadian Steel Foundries Ltd., Canadian Steel Wheel Ltd., Canadian Thermo Control Co. Ltd., Canadian General Transit Co. Ltd. In addition to his new appointment, he will continue as director of Lyman Tube & Supply Co. Ltd. and O'Connell Mont. & L. Lodge.

Bid Call Soon For New Ships

Long-awaited call for tenders on some $17,000,000 worth of Department of Transport shipbuilding contracts will go out within six weeks, John Strang, director of shipbuilding for the department, said here Tuesday.

Mr. Strang said specifications for all vessels have not been completed, and first tenders, for the rescue vessels, would be called in two weeks. All major west coast yards have stated they will bid on the contracts.

Biggest of the new ships will be the weatherships, intended to replace the converted frigates St. Catharines and Stone-town on Station Papa.

Mr. Strang said it would take up to three years to build the ships. They will be 400 feet long and equipped with special stabilization equipment to cut down roll.

Cost for each will be about $7,000,000.

The search and rescue vessels will be 95 feet long and cost about $700,000 each. All the new ships will be operated by the Canadian Marine Service under direction of the Department of Transport.

Douk Problem Federal Aid B.C. Wish

Attorney-General Robert Bonner Tuesday called for federal financial aid in fighting the Doukhobor problem in the West Kootenays.

He said he would be willing to meet Justice Minister E. Davie Fulton to discuss the general problem provided there is "prior indication" of federal aid.

The meeting was requested by the Association of Kootenay Municipalities.

If his condition is met said Mr. Bonner, "I certainly have no objection to the meeting provided the municipal officials arrange it."

The attorney-general said the B.C. government has for some years borne the entire cost of extra police in the Kootenays to tackle a wave of terrorism and bombing.

Now, he said, B.C. would like Ottawa to assist in footing the bill.

Most recent bombings are believed an attempt by Radical Sons of Freedom to prevent orthodox Doukhobors from buying back their land from the provincial government.

The government took over title to Doukhobor lands after the sect's co-operatives went broke in the 1930s.

Now Freedomite leaders want to "lay their cards on the table" at a federal-provincial meeting, according to Aid Joe Palyga of Trail, president of the municipal association.

But Mr. Bonner said he does not want "a chewing the fat session." He wants advance notice that something concrete in the way of federal co-operation would be forthcoming.

MAGISTRATE RULES

'Type' of Murder Must Be Stated

WINNIPEG (CP)—Magistrate Isaac Rice ruled in court Tuesday that the Crown must state before the start of a preliminary hearing of a murder charge whether it is proceeding on the basis of capital or non-capital murder.

Local court officials said they believed it was the first time such a ruling had been made since the Criminal Code of Canada was amended recently to distinguish between capital and non-capital murder.

The issue arose at the opening of the preliminary hearing of a murder charge against Otto Schaller, 20, of Winnipeg, charged in the shooting death of his roommate, Karoly Binder, 26.

He said the charge made no reference to an amendment to the Criminal Code passed Sept. 1, and he said that the Crown must indicate in a murder charge whether it is trying a capital or a non-capital case.

Mr. Walsh added that his handling of the defence also would take a different course according to whether Schaller is charged with capital or non-capital murder.

Binder, 26, Binder's decomposing body was found stuffed in a buried steamer trunk near Beaconsfield, Man., in July.

Crown prosecutor John Enns, after arguing that the indication was not necessary, amended the charge to one of capital murder after Magistrate Rice's ruling.

Defence counsel Harry Walsh told the magistrate that Schaller was in a "dilemma" because as the Crown's information was laid the accused didn't know what he was charged with.

He said the charge made no reference to an amendment to the Criminal Code passed Sept. 1, and he said that the Crown must indicate in a murder charge whether it is trying a capital or a non-capital case.

Mr. Walsh added that his handling of the defence also would take a different course according to whether Schaller is charged with capital or non-capital murder.

WIDOW of former U.S. president Franklin Roosevelt, Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, will be a member of the U.S. delegation to the UN General Assembly again this year for the first time in nine years.

Mount Waddington, loftiest of the peaks in British Columbia's Coast Range, was first climbed in 1936. It is 170 miles northwest of Vancouver.

NEW TRADE OFFICES PLANNED BY CANADA

BONN (CP)—Trade Minister Hees said Tuesday he hopes to step up Canada's export promotion effort through new trade offices in the German and Italian industrial centre of Dusseldorf and Milan.

Hees told reporters he will recommend the opening of the new offices in order to put Canadian trade commissioners in two of Canada's big markets for industrial raw materials.

Canada has trade commission offices here and in Hamburg, Germany's big distribution centre. The only trade office in Italy is located in Rome.

Before flying from Bonn to Paris late Tuesday, Hees visited the big international food fair opening Saturday in nearby Cologne.

Big Guns Silent But Hab Coach Won't Fret Yet

By DOUG PEDEN

You can't blame coach Toe Blake for refusing to fret while the big guns of Montreal Canadiens remain dull and silent.

Club vice-president Kenny Reardon is one of the puck people around Memorial Arena who today professed concern after Bernie "Boom Boom" Geoffrion, Jean Beliveau and Dickie Moore failed to fire a single goal in the first four intra-squad games of the National Hockey League club's training camp.

All three are among the best in the business of collecting goals and all have captured NHL scoring crowns. Geoffrion and Beliveau finished one-two in the point race last season and Moore, although missing 13 games, banged home 35 goals.

"I hope they start finding the range soon," commented Reardon, who is probably just trying to prod the high-priced help into giving out with a little more energy.

"Naturally, I'd like to see them scoring lots of goals," said Blake, "but they now have to get into condition. Besides, I just have to think back to last year."

Last year the Boomer didn't fire a single goal in pre-season exhibition games. The rest is history. He blazed through the regular season to equal Rocket Richard's NHL record of 50 goals in one season.

Toe wouldn't mind a repeat performance.

Johnson Should Make Reardon Smile

During Tuesday's two scrimmage sessions at Memorial Arena, Blake again appeared to be doing most of his fretting about the Montreal defence. He shuffled his rear guard pairings, breaking up the former New York-Ranger duo of Lou Fontinato and John Hanna and the veteran Habitant pair of Tom Johnson and Jean-Guy Paibot.

Fontinato was paired with Jean Gauthier and Hanna with Al MacNeil on the White team. For the Reds, Talbot was working with Terry Harper and Johnson with Jean-Claude Tremblay. Hanna and Fontinato were back together during the afternoon scrimmage.

If Reardon was worried about the mediocre efforts of the "big three," he should have been as happy as a kid in a candy factory with the efforts of Johnson, Donnie Marshall and Claude Provost.

Johnson, a 31-year-old 185-pounder who has been a regular with Canadiens for 11 seasons, was one of the standouts of the morning workout as the Reds racked up a 5-3 triumph over the Whites.

"I've never seen Johnson look as good this early in the season," commented Blake, who also likes what he saw of Fontinato.

Marshall, starting his sixth campaign with the Habs, was also in fine fettle during the morning session and continued his free skating and sharp shooting in the afternoon workout.

Marshall, who notched 14 goals last winter, fired three goals before lunch. Slender Bob Rousseau, who has taken some good bumps from Fontinato but looks as if he has a good chance to hold a wing berth, and Gilles Tremblay also scored for Reds, and Billy Hicke, Bev Bell and Claude Provost tallied for the Whites.

Mask Was a Face-Saver for Charlie

Value of Canadian edict that all goalies must wear face masks during practices was proved in the morning tussle. Veteran Charlie Hodge, guarding the White nets, stopped a booming, deflected shot with the mask. Without a face-plate, the little guy would probably have been headed for hospital and upstern stitches.

Ed Johnston, with Hull-Ottawa last season, looked after goaltending for the Reds in the morning and in the afternoon Jacques Plante and Cesare Maniago were back in action.

In that one Marshall connected for his sixth goal of the training camp as the Whites came up with their first win, a 6-3 decision.

Six players shared scoring for Whites—Phil Goyette, MacNeil, Hicke, Henri Richard, who was starting to move well; Provost, skating in high gear all the way and counting the day's best goal; and Bell.

For the Reds, scorers were Marshall, Rousseau and Ralph Backstrom, one of the players still packing a few extra pounds.

Today was expected to be one of the worst for the players, who have accumulated a host of aching muscles from the tough work the first two days.

"After today," says Reardon, "You'll see the boys start to loosen up and they should be flying by Saturday."

AROUND THE CAMPS

Defence Lacking, Maloney Looking

(From Times News Services)

Rare is the hockey coach whose head is not on a greased swivel these days.

A swivel-head is best to look for players, my dear.

Exhibit "A" is Phil Maloney, Vancouver Canucks' new playing coach who keeps swinging his head east and in the direction of New York Rangers. Maloney covets Larry Popen and Bruce Carmichael, a pair of forwards with the Western Hockey League Canucks last season.

Rangers, however, have assigned both to Los Angeles Blades but Maloney keeps hoping the National League team will reassign them to his WHL squad.

DEFENCE WORRIES

Phil's head also keeps swinging around in hopes of locating defencemen. Blue liners pose one of Canucks' major training camp problems.

Boston Bruins of the NHL also have defence problems of sorts. Ted Green has been sidelined for a month with a broken left hand and Bruins have been rejected in their bid to woo Gord Tansley.

Tansley, who played with Seattle Totems last season, was obtained in a draft. The 23-year-old rearguard, who recently enrolled at a Vancouver college, is holding out for a four-year university education in his contract.

ROOKIE STARS

Jim Pappin, with Sudbury Wolves last season, scored both goals in the first period Tuesday to give Toronto Maple Leafs a 2-1 exhibition victory over Rangers. Camille Henry scored for New York.

At Welland, Ont., goals by ex-Victoria Cougar Bert Fozzell, Dave Creighton and Ted Wright gave Buffalo Bisons a 3-2 victory over Chicago Black Hawks. Reg Fleming and Stan Mikita counted for Hawks.

Esther Works for Babe; Roger's Chances Slim

Maris Held to One Single In Twin Bill at Baltimore

By United Press International

The Babe is still the champ—unless brash young Roger Maris can produce a near-miracle.

That's the situation as the 27-year-old New York Yankee slugger goes into tonight's game with the Baltimore Orioles needing two homers to tie and three to break Ruth's 34-year mark of 60 homers in a season.

It's possible that Roger can do it—but it's almost certain that he lost his chance to become baseball's new home run king Tuesday night when he failed to connect in the Yankees' split of a doubleheader with the Orioles. He'll be swinging again tonight in the spacious Baltimore Park where he has failed to hit a single homer this season and the weather forecast indicates that he'll have the added handicap of strong winds sweeping into his teeth as hurricane Esther chews its way along the Atlantic coast.

Thus, the record that Ruth placed on the books in 1927 apparently has survived the challenge of the square-jawed Maris just as it has withstood the challenges of such sluggers as Jimmy Foxx, Hank Greenberg, Hack Wilson, Ralph Kiner, Mickey Mantle, and Johnny Mize over the years.

Tonight's game is the Yankees' 154th of the season—and that's all the games Maris has to equal or break the record according to the ruling made by Commissioner Ford Frick. Anything he achieves in the Yankees' eight remaining games will be listed under a separate category.

Maris, who once was 25 games ahead of the record pace set by Ruth in 1927, had only a single, a walk and seven "record-killing" outs in nine trips to the plate Tuesday night. He went hitless in four tries in the first game, won by the Orioles, 1-0, and contributed only a single to the Yankees' 3-1 victory in the nightcap.

Steve Barber, a 22-year-old, left-handed fireballer, stopped Maris and the Yankees cold with a four-hitter in the first game. Bud Daley won the second game for the Yankees with the aid of Bill Skowron's homer, but Maris couldn't connect against either Hal Brown or Hoyt Wilhelm.

The Tigers managed to stay alive when they beat the Los Angeles Angels, 6-2, in an afternoon game behind the

Reds Take Big Stride Towards Flag

The second game provided some consolation to Maris and the teammates rooting for him because it enabled the Yankees to clinch a tie for their 11th American League pennant in 13 years and their first under Ralph Houk. The next Detroit loss or New York victory officially wraps it all up.

The Tigers managed to stay alive when they beat the Los Angeles Angels, 6-2, in an afternoon game behind the fourth pitching of Don Mossi, who scored his 15th victory. Bill Bruton drove in two runs and Al Kaline and Rocky Colavito one each for the Tigers, while Eddie Yost and Steve Bilko homered for the Angels.

Cincinnati Reds took a giant stride toward their first National League pennant since 1940 when they beat the Pittsburgh Pirates, 10-1, and the Chicago Cubs downed second-place Los Angeles Dodgers, 7-3. The Reds now lead the Dodgers by five games and have only eight to play.

Curt Simmons pitched a five-hitter and Stan Musial hit a two-run homer, his 15th of the season, as the St. Louis Cardinals beat the Philadelphia Phillies, 3-0. Ed Bailey's ninth-inning single enabled the San Francisco Giants to defeat the Milwaukee Braves, 11-10, foiling Warren Spahn's bid for his 12th 20 victory season in other NL games.

Vancouver Gets Jump As Smith Counts Four

VANCOUVER (CP) — Coach Bruce McClure, while admitting his Brampton Ramblers were simply outclassed here Tuesday night, is far from conceding the best-of-seven Canadian senior lacrosse final to Vancouver.

The fast-breaking Vancouver club trounced Brampton, making its first appearance in a Mann Cup final in 30 years, 14-6 before 2,300 fans to take a 1-0 lead in the series.

Second game will be played Thursday with the third scheduled for Saturday. Fourth game is set for Monday.

Ancient Films Destroy Old Ring Traditions

By HARRY GRAYSON

NEW YORK (NEA) — Boxing has been seriously sick for some time now.

Things are tough enough without having Jimmy Jacobs flying around the country destroying the best-busting business' fine old traditions.

Yet that is what Jacobs, multiple national standball champion, is doing in running off old fight films dating back as far as the first one ever made in 1894. In that one, James J. Corbett knocked out Peter Courtney in the sixth two-minute round for Thomas A. Edison and Kinetoscope in Orange, N.J.

Even violent professional old-timers start becoming disillusioned with that one and the more they see down through the career of Jack Johnson the more they are convinced that old prize fighters, like all athletes, grow in stature when seen in the flattering light of distance.

I saw clips of some 25 battles of the misty past as one of some 200 guests of Samuel S. Himmell, the paper magnate, at the New York Advertising Club. Himmell, long-time ring fan, flew Jacobs and his projector in from Los Angeles as an off the beaten track goodwill gesture in the graphic arts industry.

Jacobs, 30, Los Angeles furniture dealer, has spent 14 years and travelled 58,000 miles collecting 1,300 fight films. It has been his hobby since a kid.

By a special printing process, Jacobs restores natural motion and timing to the old films which were jerky in their original form. All but one shown at the Ad Club—James J. Jeffries' knockout of Gus Ruhlin in five rounds in San Francisco in 1901—are remarkably clear.

While the myth of old-time supremacy was to a great extent being wiped out, the show on Park Avenue was mighty entertaining. You were in Carson City in 1897 when the term solar plexus punch was coined as Ruby Robert Fitzsimmons poked Jim Corbett in the belly. You saw Jim Jeffries young, and later at 35, against Jack Johnson in Reno after having lived it up soft and easy for a half-dozen years. You saw Fireman Jim Flynn butt Johnson like a billygoat at Las Vegas, N.M. But while Johnson impressed more than any other member of the old, old guard, you could not help questioning the cloak of invincibility greybeards draped around L.T. Arthur while seeing Jeffries, the hollow shell, going 15 and Frank Moran 20 in Paris.

Jess Willard, ridiculed after the Jack Dempsey debacle in 1919, comes off much better as a towering and trim Kansan belting out the 37-year-old Johnson in the 26th round in 100-degree heat at the Havana race track.

You were in the 42nd round when Battling Nelson fouled Joe Gans to end Tex Rickard's first fight promotion in Goldfield in 1906. That was long before the no-foul rule, and it looked like just another good punch to the pantry.

There were tank jobs in those days, too. Gans, the fabled Old Master, is shown going down repeatedly without being hit by the legendary Terrible Terry McGovern in Chicago.

Gene Tunney ought to catch the show. It shows the now multi-millionaire as a trim youngster winning the American Expeditionary Force light-heavyweight championship in Paris. Had people seen this picture, Jack Dempsey might not have been such a lopsided favorite over the Manly Marine eight years later.

But, generally speaking, old fighters just fade away. Their films should, too.

Net Team Named By Cup Committee

NEW YORK (AP)—Chuck McKinley, Whitney Reed, Donald Dell and Martin Riessen were named to represent the United States against India in the first interzone Davis Cup tennis final at New Delhi, India, Sept. 30-Oct. 2.

The winner of the best-of-five series will meet Italy, European zone champions, in Rome, Oct. 13-15.

Tackle Released

EDMONTON (CP)—Texas tackle Willie Crafts was cut Tuesday by Edmonton Eskimos as the Western Football Conference club got down to the legal limit of 15 imports

KAMLOOPS (CP)—Okanagan junior "A" hockey took a step forward this week with the drafting of a 30-game schedule and adoption of a four-team constitution.

The junior loop, organized last year, begins its 1961-62 season Oct. 31. Each team will play 15 home and 15 away-from-home games to be followed by league and provincial playoffs.

Vernon, Kelowna and Penticton are seeking financial backing. Kamloops, the fourth club, has already acquired a sponsor.

Apart from individual sponsorship, the league will receive no outside help.

League president Bill Brown of Vernon says: "We are hoping the fan response will make it a self-supporting organization."

At least three Western Hockey League clubs have reportedly shown interest in obtaining options on Okanagan players, but Brown says the loop isn't interested in professional ties immediately.

Kamloops is the only team to have named a coach so far. Former National Hockey League Chicago Blackhawks star Ken Stewart will handle the team.

Aussies Wind Up On Winning Note

DUBLIN (Reuters)—The Australian cricketers wound up their tour of the British Isles here Tuesday with a victory by 282 runs over Ireland in a two-day match.

Final scores: Australians 291 and 233 for 6 declared; Ireland 76 and 166.

The Australians won 14 matches in their 37-match tour.

The B.C. Coast figure skating championships will be held in Victoria for the first time in history.

And Esquimalt Sports Centre, the "infant" of B.C. rinks, will do the honors as host arena.

The championships will be held Nov. 26.

All signs point to a boom in the sport locally.

Victoria Figure Skating Club president Maureen Humphries said today the club has a membership of over 700 active skaters, ranging in age from three to over 80, and expects to attract up to 1,000 this season with promise of more and better skating hours.

The club, which opens its winter season Sept. 30, will use both Memorial Arena and the Esquimalt rink.

BOOM SHOWING

"B.C. has approximately 7,500 skaters," said Mrs. Humphries, "and new clubs are being formed every season throughout the province to keep pace with the enthusiasm."

Mrs. Humphries also announced that a new professional has been acquired by the club upon the retirement of Mary Rose Thacker, a former North American champion who has been with the club for the past eight years.

The new senior professional is Jean Westwood, an English miss who was world dance champion from 1952 to 1955. Miss Westwood previously taught at Lake Placid, N.Y., and Toronto.

Grudge Battle Features Card

A two-man grudge battle and a four-man tag team match are on the menu for pro wrestling fans Saturday at Memorial Arena.

Karol Kalmikoff and Krusher Kowalski will throw a combined total of 495 pounds around in the grudge affair. The tag team pits Roy McClarty and Doug Lindsey against Ox Anderson and Bob Morse.

Prelims open the card at 8.30.

Medallist Award To Mrs. Humber

Mrs. C. S. Humber won medal honors with a gross 83 in qualifying for the women's club championship at Uplands Golf Club.

The defending champion, Mrs. B. F. Thirlwell, also qualified for flight play.

LIONS, STAMPS PROTEST

Grid Officials Substandard?

VANCOUVER (CP)—General manager Herb Capozzi of British Columbia Lions Tuesday night said he has filed an official protest with Canadian football commissioner G. Sydney Halter of Winnipeg over the officiating in Toronto Argonauts' 15-7 Canadian Football Conference victory here Monday over the Lions.

Fleming Steps Up Ladder

By The Canadian Press

The leaders made little headway in the Western Football Conference scoring race during last week.

Edmonton's Jackie Parker still leads the pack with 66 points in nine games, followed by teammate Johnny Bright with 60. But their total output in Eskimos' only game of the week—an 8-8 tie with Toronto Argonauts Saturday—was one point, on a convert kicked by Parker.

Willie Fleming, one of the few bright spots in the gloomy aspect of the winless British Columbia Lions, picked up two touchdowns in one of his club's two games to move in to a third-place tie with Leo Lewis of Winnipeg Blue Bombers with 36 points.

TIGHT RACE

Seven points separate the top seven men in the neck-and-neck battle for the scoring title in the Eastern Conference.

Ron Stewart, Ottawa Rough Riders' halfback, and backfielder Gerry McDougall of Hamilton Tiger-Cats tied for first place with 36 points each on six touchdowns. Toronto's Cookie Gilchrist, the early leader, slipped to third place.

Gymnastic Program Urged To Combat Delinquency

A gymnastic program as a means to combat juvenile delinquency has been suggested to Esquimalt council.

A letter from Jack Moffat, 640 Fernhill, read at a meeting Monday, stated there is a great deal of unused gymnastic equipment in the area which could be put to good use.

"It's nice to know people are taking an interest in these things but I don't know how we can sponsor a gymnastic program," said Reeve A. C. Wurtele.

Council will ask Mr. Moffat to attend a meeting Oct. 16 to enlarge on his suggestion for the benefit of councillors.

The meeting approved an Oak Bay-sponsored bylaw designed to limit the sale and setting-off of fireworks. It will now be dealt with by the inter-municipal committee.

The bylaw prohibits sale of the fireworks except during the 48 hours immediately before midnight, Oct. 31 each year; prohibits their use except during the 12 hours preceding midnight, Oct. 31; and prohibits their use on the roadway.

Persons breaking the bylaw, it is suggested, should be liable on conviction to a fine of $10 or five days in jail, or both.

The bylaw was drawn up by the four solicitors of the city and neighboring municipalities.

A request made some weeks ago by Miss Irene Pratt, 177 Esquimalt Road, for the establishment of a branch library in Esquimalt, will be raised at the next meeting of the Library Board by Coun. Vincent Rush.

The matter was tabled by the board at its last meeting in August.

However, the general opinion of councillors is that the matter should be dropped.

"We already have the bookmobile service," said Coun. G. K. Sammon. "A branch library could cost Esquimalt ratepayers thousands of dollars a year."

Coun. Rush said he had made enquiries and it was his opinion "we should leave the matter well enough alone."

Council granted an application by C. E. Ellis for rezoning from commercial to multiple dwelling of ground at 265 Esquimalt Road.

The land, plus a neighboring plot, will be used for the building of an apartment block.

PEER DENIES ENGAGEMENT TO PRINCESS

LONDON (Reuters) — The London Daily Mail Tuesday quotes Lord O'Neill as denying that there is any possibility of his engagement to Princess Alexandra, cousin of the Queen.

A Daily Mail reporter quotes Lord O'Neill, 28-year-old Irish peer, as saying: "There is no question of my engagement to the Princess now or in the future—none at all."

Rumors of an impending engagement began last Friday when a London evening newspaper reported that O'Neill had bought a ring from a London jeweler. Princess Alexandra is 24.

OFF TO JAPAN

Dief's Plans Scuttle Election

OTTAWA (UPI) — Prime Minister John Diefenbaker's decision to visit Japan next month has ruled out any general election before next year.

Diefenbaker was toying with the idea of a fall election around the time a yes-or-no decision was required on a Japanese trip this year.

The prime minister is known to have told Kori Hagiwara, then Japanese ambassador to Canada, in July that he would go to Japan if he did not call a fall election. At this juncture he was threatening a general election on Senate reform if the Upper House amended a custom tariff bill—which it did anyway.

Even if the prime minister had been thinking of calling a general election after the current session, the Berlin crisis would probably have dissuaded him. He would not want to be out of the hustings when important international decisions had to be made.

There have been reliable reports the three parties in the House have agreed to end the current session in two weeks' time, or three at the outside.

The members would take a short break and return during the first week of December for the fifth—and almost certainly the last—session of the 24th Parliament. They would dispose of the throne-speech before Christmas.

This would pave the way for a spring election.

New Home Recipe Reducing Plan

It's simple how quickly one may lose pounds of unsightly fat right in your own home. Make this home recipe yourself. It's easy, no trouble at all and costs little. Just go to your drug store and ask for four ounces of Naran Concentrate. Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill the bottle. Take two tablespoons full a day as needed and follow the Naran Plan.

If your first purchase does not show you a simple easy way to lose bulky fat and help regain slender more graceful curves; if reducible pounds and inches of excess fat don't disappear from neck, chin, arms, abdomen, hips, calves and ankles just return the empty bottle for your money back. Follow this easy way endorsed by many who have tried this plan and help bring back alluring curves and graceful slenderness. Note how quickly, bloated disappears—how much better you feel. More alive, youthful appearing and active.

That Daughter of Yours Will Be 'Borrowing' Them

By PENNY SAVER

Just because you can't qualify as a member of the teenage set any longer is no reason why you shouldn't look as pretty as a picture in a new sweater and cardigan set. Particularly designed with you in mind are attractive sets I've seen selling at $10.95. Made from English wool and manufactured in Canada, they can be hand-washed and come up as lovely as the day you bought them.

Cardigans have a smart three-quarter-length sleeve and neck edges and cuffs are bordered with a basket weave pattern.

Triangular pockets are set in front edges and highlighting these and front of matching short-sleeved sweater is embroidery scroll work. Neckline of sweater is high rising and one customer told me that she reverses it at times so that it makes a svelte sweater to wear under her best suit.

Sets come in either yellow, aqua, red, turquoise, pine green, white or teal blue and are available in sizes 36 to 44.

Bought separately, cardigans sell at $6.95, while sweaters are priced at $5.95.

They're as much fun as a wagonload of monkeys—maybe, because that's exactly what they are! One enterprising women's church group is making the most mischievous stuffed monkeys you ever saw that sell at $2 at store I was in. They are made of men's heavy socks and stuffed with nylon stockings and there's absolutely nothing that can harm the young owner. Mothers will bless you for your choice of gift, too—they can be popped into a washing machine and washed without any risk at all.

If you're a sweater girl or are interested in buying one of these toys, give Penny a ring at EV 2-3131 for further details.

THE BETTER HALF

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Teeth Braces Aren't Just For Kids—Adults Profit, Too

When we think of braces on the teeth, we think of children. At one time most of the orthodontist's patients were children. Today, more and more adults are wearing braces and orthodontics is achieving excellent results with an increasing number of adults.

Crooked or protruding teeth, or those which are badly spaced, may have repercussions on both health and personality. They may lead to pyorrhea and tooth decay and an inadequate chewing surface. They may also cause unattractive facial mannerisms, such as the habit of pulling the upper lip down over the teeth when smiling.

Whenever possible, tooth irregularities should be corrected. Of course, if this is impossible, the vibrant, outgoing person forgets the defect and lives happily anyway. However, some people are severely affected by physical defects.

A 42-year-old school teacher with unsightly teeth had to be taught to smile after dental correction. She had to learn to use weakened muscles which, when gradually strengthened, lifted the corner of her drooping mouth. As you can imagine, her personality also changed greatly.

The principles of orthodontics for adults are the same, generally, as those for children, although there may be some variations in the techniques used. It may take longer to correct the same problem in an adult than in a child since children's bones are more responsive to pressure than adults' are.

The appliances worn by an adult may range from a strap-like cap with appliances attached, worn only at home and during sleep, to appliances which are cemented into the mouth and are removed only by the orthodontist. Simple problems can be corrected in a few months, but usually treatment will last one or two years or more.

"HE LOOKS YOUNG... SHE'S LOOKING OLDER!"

Unfair—yet how often you've heard such comments about husband-and-wife! When age begins to show in a woman's face, it's generally due to skin dryout—a condition caused by lack of natural oils and moisture. The skin coarsens, little lines and crow's feet appear. But you can treat this problem—with POND'S DRY SKIN CREAM. This famous cream contains Allantoin—a remarkable substance that starts repair work in just 10 minutes! Allantoin floats off lifeless surface cells, opens the way for Pond's rich moisturized lanolin to penetrate deep-down! Almost overnight, your complexion becomes softer, smoother, younger-looking! Prevent skin dryout. Get POND'S DRY SKIN CREAM. In jar or tube, wherever cosmetics are sold.

There is no doubt that the improvement in appearance which such treatment gives is often startling. If you have a problem like this, your family physician is the one to recommend an orthodontist to you.

Do you have problem hips? Send for leaflet No. 3, which contains exercises for reducing and firming the hips. Enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope, with your request. Address Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

DEAR ABBY

On Guard!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: My eleven-year-old daughter is very friendly with everyone in the neighborhood, and frequently visits the neighbors. She gets along well with adults, as well as with children, and everyone welcomes her into their homes.

My problem is one nosy neighbor who "pokes it her business to know everybody else's. She asks my daughter questions about who visits us, what we served, what he talked about, and so forth. You know, Abby, 11-year-olds don't always have the best judgment... therefore this old buttinsky gets a lot of information I would rather she didn't have. Should I call on this busybody and set her straight? Or should I tell my daughter not to go over there any more?

PROJECT DWELLER.

DEAR DWELLER: Tell your daughter that it isn't "nice" to tell neighbors what goes on at home. And if this neighbor asks questions that are none of her business, your little girl should avoid her or reply, "Why don't you ask my mother?"

DEAR ABBY: I recently lost my precious mother. Although she was ill a long time, when she finally passed on I was shocked and heart-broken. Out of respect to my mother's memory I want to wear black and refrain from entertainment for at least three months.

My husband and friends tell me that I am foolish and old-fashioned, and that nobody does this any more. I need an outside opinion.

IN MOURNING.

DEAR IN: Pay no attention to what your husband and friends say. Do what your heart dictates. P.S. Many people go into mourning for a full year.

"Are things rough?" Let Abby help you solve your problem. For a personal reply enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope and send to 205 Park Rd., Burlingame, Calif.

BETWEEN OURSELVES

Another Door Has Opened To Many Canadian Women

By Elizabeth Forbes

To national women's groups in Canada, who continuously work for upleveling in the status of women, some of the most encouraging news made headlines last week when the Bank of Nova Scotia, for the first time in Canadian banking, announced that a woman would be given the position of bank manager.

Forbes

The Bank of Nova Scotia not only appointed one woman, it named two to the post—one in Ottawa and the other in Toronto.

And the bank's general manager made it quite clear that the promotion of women to top-flight banking positions will continue as long as the applicants are qualified and appropriate openings arise.

About 55 per cent of the bank's staff is now women, he said, and many of them have great ability.

He added that he hoped "our competitors will also see the logic of this move."

Story of the advance of women in the Bank of Nova Scotia — up to fast-week appointments—is paralleled in every phase of Canada's banking industry. But, it is rarely acknowledged and certainly not publicized.

In 1900, the bank had only one woman on its staff. During the war years (especially in the last world war) women took on great responsibilities in bank work and did so well they soon were offered opportunities to display administrative talents.

Promotions increased. As well as secretaries, stenographers, machine operators and tellers there are now women accountants, assistant accountants and branch department heads and last year, one woman was appointed assistant supervisor of staff.

Toronto's first bank manager is Mrs. Shirley Giles, a pretty housewife whose husband Allen is also an employee of the Bank of Nova Scotia, in personnel work.

She started her banking career 18 years ago in her home town of Hamilton, where she met her husband, and moved from there through several branches to Toronto where she became assistant accountant of a branch.

The other woman bank manager is clever, attractive Miss Gladys Marcellus, who was the first woman in Canada to be named a bank accountant, in her home town of Chesterville, Ont. She will now head an Ottawa branch of the bank.

With these appointments, women have unlocked the gates of a stronghold that has always stood out against them holding top ranking positions. History has been made!

It's a splendid step forward and is a clear indication of the rapidly expanding horizon that exists for women in business, in the professions and in public life.

There is only one word they must remember and that is in the statement of the Bank of Nova Scotia's general manager who said last week: "Promotion of women to top flight positions will continue as long as the applicants are qualified."

Qualified . . . that's the word!

Among guests at a special ladies' tea arranged by the Canadian Pacific Pensioners' Association in the Princess Marguerite Tuesday afternoon, before the regular run to Seattle, were, from the left, Mrs. V. A. St. Denis, Mrs. W. J. Pugh, Mrs. G. Emerson, Mrs. S. Shaw, Mrs. Walter Pym and Mrs. J. H. Perkin. In charge of arrangements was the president of the group, Mr. E. D. Campbell. A program was enjoyed and afternoon tea was served in the ship's spacious dining room.

New Laws Give Spanish Women More Rights, Greater Freedom

MADRID (Reuters) — The changing face of modern Spain is reflected in a new law giving women more rights and greater freedom.

The sweeping powers of the husband over his wife are abolished by this law, but they are considerably reduced.

A variety of administrative and other posts formerly closed to women now are opened.

From Jan. 1 next, it will be possible for a Spanish woman to become a bus conductor, or, at the other extreme, to be appointed ambassador or head of a government department.

Until now, a Spanish wife had to have her husband's signed authority before she could do even such simple things as apply for a passport or sell a piece of property.

From Jan. 1, the agreement of the husband to his wife's activities will be taken for granted unless he personally signifies his disagreement. If he does, the wife will be able to take the issue to court. If the court finds the husband's refusal is based on an "abuse of marital rights" or that he is "acting in bad faith," it can set aside his veto.

STATUS CHANGES

These modifications and the opening to women of almost all civil service careers except such juridical posts as judges, public prosecutors or magistrates, change considerably the status of the Spanish woman.

Spanish women registered today as employed total 2,300,000 or 18 per cent of the working population. This figure does not include the large number of women working on family farms.

But there are still only 13,000 women undergraduates in Spanish universities in a population of 30,000,000 people, though there are a few outstanding career women, including Senorita Pilar Primo de Rivera, who runs the women's section of the Falange movement.

Senorita Mercedes Sanz Bachiller is a leading authority on Spain's social welfare problems, and there are some well-known women writers.

But, speaking generally, senorita is still mainly interested in matrimony and a family.

Wedding Cake Made By Friend of Groom

A four-tier cake, made by Mrs. A. A. Paterson, a friend of the groom's family, was cut at a reception following the recent wedding of Loreen Marie Roach and William John Allen in St. Saviour's Anglican Church.

Cake was arranged with white candles in antique crystal holders on the bride's table.

Rev. Douglas Kendall officiated at the wedding. Gold and bronze toned flowers decorated the church for the occasion. Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth L. Roach of Victoria, and Mr. and Mrs. John Allen of Prince George.

The bride wore a waltz-length gown of ivory and pale peach satin brocade, styled with three-quarter length sleeves and scoop neckline. Her white bandeau hat held a short veil and she carried white carnations. She was given in marriage by her father.

As the only attendant, Miss Ann Roach wore a royal blue brocade dress with matching bandeau hat. She carried pink carnations.

Ian McKenzie was best man and the ushers were Edward Allen and Gary Roach.

Reception was held at the Munro Street home of the bride's parents where autumn flowers decorated the rooms. E. E. Stewart proposed the toast to his niece.

The bride wore a gold wool dress with black accessories when she left by motor for the honeymoon up-island, on the mainland and in Alberta.

The couple will make their home in Prince George. Out-of-town guests at the wedding included Mr. and Mrs. Ian McKenzie, John Zogast, John Wasyluk, Fred Luthi, Albert Bertschi, Louis Bertschi and Miss Janice Allen, all of Prince George, and Miss Nita Pearce, Vancouver.

Parties for New Students

Gallons of coffee will be consumed all over Victoria this evening as upper-classwomen (students in second, third and fourth year at Victoria College) entertain at a round of coffee parties in honor of their "little sisters" (first year students). Parties are part of the "get acquainted" program arranged by the Women Undergraduates' Society. Among those entertaining will be the Misses Dale Irvine, Sharon Rayner, Barbara Emery, Sue Mearns, Sally Holland, Gweneth Judd, Barb Hodgson, Jennifer Genge, Kay Armstrong, Doreen Leith, Cathy Emery, Martha Daysmith, Diane Wiper, Anne Lee and Julia Banfield.

Silver candles and blue flowers will be used as decor when the Women Undergraduates' Society entertains at a tea in the faculty lounge at Gordon Head on Sunday afternoon from 2.30 to 4.30 p.m. Theme will mark the society's 25th anniversary. Receiving guests will be Miss Dale Irvine, president, and members of the executive. Guest of honor will be Mrs. Harry Smith, a former Victoria College student and mother of Mrs. B. Petersen, an earlier president. Other guests will be faculty members and "little sisters" of society members.

WILLIAM TOZER

Premier's Grandson 'Backs' Peace

VANCOUVER (CP) — Premier Bennett's seven-year-old grandson says "Pop is quite right."

William Tozer explained what would happen if his grandfather, whom he calls Pop, built a hydro-electric dam on the Peace River.

"Pop would get a lot of water that way," said William in a telephone interview from his Kelowna home.

"And he'd let the water out when a dry spell came. That would keep it high on the Mackenzie for boats to go on."

William's discourse on hydro power and navigable waters followed his grandfather's weekend speech on the issue in Prince George.

"My seven-year-old grandson," the premier stormed, "could tell that by regulating the Peace we will improve navigation on the Mackenzie."

William seemed well equipped for his discussion. Six years ago, "when I was just a little kid," his father was a tugboat skipper on the Mackenzie.

HE'S BOSS

"Pop is the premier," said William. "He is boss of the province. But I don't know who Dave Fulton is. Pop doesn't talk to me about him."

William knew, however, what the premier's arch power rival represented.

"The federal government is the government of Canada," he said. "It makes laws and even Pop can't break them."

And the Columbia River? "It's just another river. Pop doesn't talk to me about that either."

"I can't remember too much more," said William, now in Grade 2. "I haven't even had my breakfast yet."

Oak Bay Removes Laburnum Trees

Oak Bay Council Monday approved the removal of five laburnum trees along the boulevard of Oliver Street.

The ornamental trees were ordered cut down after some residents of the street petitioned council to remove them because the seed pods are poisonous and a danger to children.

The petition was signed by 14 of the 38 residents in the block concerned. The trees, five in all, have been there for many years.

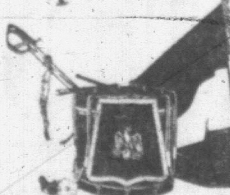

P.E.I. Liberal Leader Resigns

CHARLOTTETOWN (CP) — The resignation of Alex W. Matheson as leader of the Prince Edward Island Liberal party was announced Monday.

In making the announcement, E. D. Reid, president of the P.E.I. Liberal Association, said Mr. Matheson may contest the party leadership later this month.

Mr. Matheson, 58, had no comment. He was premier from 1953 until 1959 when his party was defeated by the Progressive Conservatives led by Walter Shaw.

BERLIN (Reuters) — Forlorn-looking families stood by helplessly today as the East German regime started evacuating their homes along the Communist side of Berlin's East-West border.

The operation, carried out under the surveillance of armored cars and strong detachments of East German police, was believed designed to create a "no-man's" border strip.

From West-Berlin, East German couples with clenched fists and set faces could be seen looking on as their belongings were piled into state-owned trucks.

Three West Berlin women stood weeping at the concrete and barbed wire fence dividing Berlin. One was comforting another who repeatedly shouted "Mother" across to the eastern sector.

A West Berlin policeman said about 80 apartment dwellings with an estimated 250 occupants were affected by the first stage of the deportations which began at dawn.

PUNISH HELPERS

An East German policeman said only families who helped East Berliners to flee to the West were being moved.

Photographers who got too close on the Western side were showered with buckets of water by the Communists.

Five hours after the movers arrived, Communist authorities published the text of a new law "for the defence of the German Democratic Republic." It gives the Red authorities a legal excuse for taking over property, forbidding people to enter certain areas and calling up citizens for all kinds of service.

Tuesday night nine successful jumps were reported from the border apartment windows now taken over by the East German police.

OAS Supervision

CIUDAD TRUJILLO, D.R. (UPI) — Gen. Rafael Trujillo Jr. said Monday night the Organization of American States will be invited to supervise the presidential election in May.

Columbia R. Agencies Link Forces in U.S.

PORTLAND (AP) — An agreement under which both federal and non-federal hydro-electric plants in the Columbia River basin will be operated as though they have one owner was signed here today by 11 agencies and companies.

Under the one-year compact, the federal government will receive $1,100,000 from non-federal downstream power producers because of the assured capacity the upstream storage gives them. Smaller payments will be made among the non-federal parties for benefits they receive from various non-federal upstream storage.

Charles F. Luce, Bonneville administrator, said the compact, to run for one year, is a pilot plan expected to lead to long-term agreement.

UNDER TREATY

It carries out the principle of a treaty approved between the United States and Canada under which Canada would get 50 per cent of the power generated in the United States as a result of upstream dams in Canada.

BERLIN (AP) — Five East Berliners crawled over rooftops Monday night and then slid down a rope to freedom in West Berlin, police reported Tuesday.

OTTAWA (CP) — The navy by various public-spirited men; the statement said. "Food, gasoline, fishing equipment and other items involving expense were paid for this was a well-intentioned re- by the individuals concerned and were not a charge on public funds." "Whilst it is appreciated that the Oriole's movements are related to service requirements," it concluded.

The navy issued the statement in reply to reports that coastal fishermen off Vancouver Island complained that the Oriole was being used for recreational purposes and interfered with their fishing in Nahmint Bay in Alberni Inlet.

The navy's statement said that at the time—during a two-week period in August—the Oriole was not engaged in training naval cadets in seamanship, because they were on leave.

"The Oriole and its tender were made available to a small group of officers (of Pacific Command) who wished to receive some of the hospitality and services rendered to the navy and other branches of the armed forces on the west coast."

SOLUTION FRIDAY

IT HAPPENED LAST NIGHT

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — Billy Rose and Joyce Mathews are serious about it this time, and so any week now Billy's expected to marry the blonde beauty who's already been his wife once and his house guest for the last year. They recently had an almost ecstatic tour of Scotland and Ireland. Then Joyce went on to Switzerland, where her daughter, Vicki Berle, is in school. It appears that the first honeymoon of their second marriage will start this month... in London... and move to Israel in mid-October. (All Billy will say now is a gallant, "I'm terribly fond of the lady.")

Dick Powell and June Allyson seem to be flying together and parking together when they travel while Dick promotes his new TV show, so the reconciliation is complete and they're happy about it... Lynne Forrester, who plays a pinup gal for a man's magazine called "Orgy," in the Burgess Meredith musical, "The Kicks & Co." measures onto the Broadway scene at 40-25-37.

Several hoodlums—and several actors—were invited the other night to a preview of a much-publicized new movie. One comment later was: "The hoodlums looked like actors, and the actors looked like hoodlums."... Groucho Marx claims he resents GE's announcement that he'll play his first serious role (a lawyer) in one of their TV shows. "Some of my best comedy tries," he says, "turned out to be serious roles."

Ex-waitress Shirley Bassey, England's sultriest singer, only a product of Cardiff, Wales, is a smash hit at the Plaza Persim Room. Four years ago, Shirley was billed second to Lilli St. Cyr, the stripper, at Las Vegas El Rancho, and also worked as a comparative unknown at The Reno Riverside. Now Shirley's got everybody important coming to the Plaza to listen "the new weaspen"—Shirley, the new star. Shirley's married (for the second time) to British TV director Kenneth Hume.

ask Andy HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy. Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions to Andy will receive worthwhile prizes. The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 26-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia, and of the second question a Hammond Atlas of Globe.

Andy sends a complete, 26-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Dan Denton, age 11, of Gastonia, N.C., for his question:

What is an Abacus? Logarithms and fractions, equations and decimals, calculus and the isosceles triangle are terms tossed around by the math student. The gifted mathematician finds the bare facts of his subject exciting in themselves and his specialized understanding is a wonder to behold. The average fellow, however, often finds the facts and terms of mathematics dull and dry as dust.

This is the time to remember that modern mathematics took time to grow. Now and then a thoughtful person solved what often seemed to be a small problem. The solution led to another problem, and gradually a great science unfolded. Math is the basic tool for all scientific study, for solving present problems and using these solutions to open the doors to new problems.

The fascinating challenge of mathematics began even before the dawn of written history. The first shepherds tallied their sheep with notches on a stick. Early farmers figured their bags of wheat with knots in a string and the early time-keepers measured the day with shadow-sticks. All sorts of devices were invented to count, to measure and to figure. We do not know the ingenious inventors, but they were the ancestors of our complex science of mathematics. To grasp this science, most of us have to start with its early beginnings.

One of the early geniuses invented the abacus, a gadget for adding and subtracting. Basically, it is a square or oblong wooden frame around a few horizontal cross-bars. Sometimes the bars are vertical and sometimes an abacus has both vertical and horizontal cross-bars. In any case, each bar is strung with a number of movable balls or beads.

Bars Given Different Values The adding and subtracting are done by giving different values to the balls on each crossbar. For example, each ball on the first bar may represent a unit of one, each ball on the second bar a unit of 10 and each ball on the third bar a unit of 100. You do not need Andy to explain how such a device can be used to tot up the bushels of wheat in a warehouse without pencil and paper and without straining the memory banks in the old noggin.

The abacus was used by the Greeks and the Romans, the Hindus and the ancient Chinese. Several geniuses may have discovered it, or the idea may have been borrowed from one inventor and handed around the world. Some students claim that it helps them get started along the road to understanding modern mathematics with all its exciting experiences and opportunities.

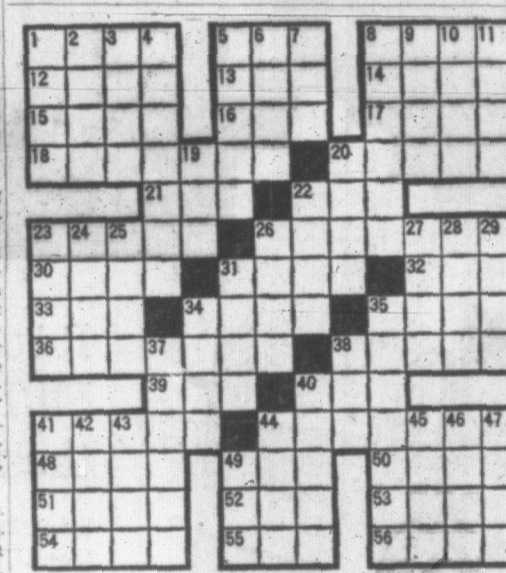

The wonderful gadget has kept pace with the times and certain models are far more complex than the simple counting frame. Not so long ago, a Japanese student used an up-to-date abacus in a contest with an electronic computer. Both reached the correct solution, but the man with the abacus reached it first. It might be fun to try a few tricks with one of these old-time adding machines.

Andy sends a Hammond's Library World Atlas to Tim Hegedus, age 10, of Rowayton, Conn., for his question:

Are there seasons at the equator? In Bridgeport, Connecticut, the winter days are short and the summer days are long. The summer sun climbs higher in the sky, but it is never directly overhead. Everywhere north and south of the equator, this is true. The days vary more with the seasons and the sun is lower in the sky the farther we get from the equator.

At the equator, however, day and night are equal throughout the year and every day the noon sun is directly overhead. Every day throughout the year is alike, and the equator knows no changing seasons.

Mr. Ingstad paused here en route home to Norway after a 4½-month voyage along the Newfoundland and Labrador coasts as far north as Cape Chidley.

HOUSEWIFE ALARMED, HER FOOD TURNS RED

LONDON (AP)—A Member of Parliament has asked the health ministry to investigate why Mrs. Mary Were's food turns red.

"It is strange and rather alarming," said Labor member Fenner Brockway.

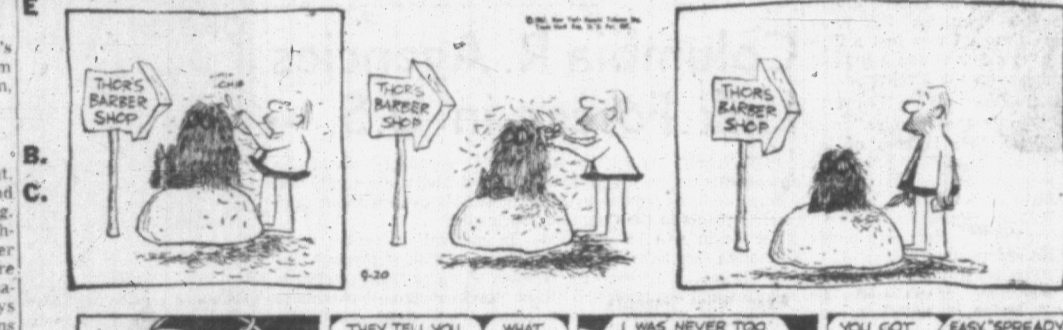

Mrs. Were, a 53-year-old housewife who lives at nearby Chalfont St. Peter, said her housekeeping is becoming a misery.

"I've never seen anything like this before," she said. "Red fungus appears overnight on my cooked food."

"I'm just hoping it has nothing to do with atomic radiation, or anything like that."

Britain's atomic energy authority has a centre at Amersham, about five miles from her home.

Local officials have been unable to explain the mystery or identify the red fungus, which appears only on food that has been cooked.

They Live It Up But Jaycees Learn to Lead

By HAL JONES

Jaycees get a lot of fun out of their Canada-wide organization, which is celebrating its 25th anniversary this week, but they stress the most important thing Junior Chamber provides for a young man is leadership training.

Nearly everything the organization does is built around this.

It's a continuing thing. As a new member comes in he is immediately put to work on a committee, thereby benefiting from the older members. Later he passes it on to newcomers.

Leadership training, basically, teaches young men to handle themselves confidently in public and business life.

Besides the practical work involved in sitting on various Jaycee committees, members are encouraged to take the International Institute course in public speaking.

The local unit has organized this course, twice a year, since 1953, but ran their own domestic effective speaking course for some years previously.

Some Jaycees say they got more out of Junior Chamber than from university to equip them for the 20th century business world.

And a national president once remarked that no man can afford to make the mistakes in business life he can make without fear of penalty in Junior Chamber.

Besides the benefit it provides for Jaycees, leadership training, because of the method it is carried out, also helps the community.

Indian School Plan Splits Parent, Child

HARRISON HOT-SPRINGS, B.C. (CP)—The chief of the Indian affairs department's education division said Tuesday Canada's system of education for Indian children is driving a wedge between parent and child.

Robert F. Davey said Indian parents resent education over which they have no control and which destroys tribal ties and ways. He was speaking at an Indian affairs conference here. Reservation schooling is authoritarian, he said.

"It has no significant impact on the Indian people as a whole and its influence is largely superficial."

WILL NOT CHANGE

The attitude of parents will not change, he said, "as long as the Indian school remains aloof from community life, a trespasser on the reserve, intruding in family life, alienating children from parents, disturbing old folk ways and hampering the freedom to roam."

He said integration of Indian children into white schools is more advanced in British Columbia than any other province.

One Indian child in three attends a white school in B.C.

INQUEST Friday Into Death Of Pedestrian

An inquest will be held Friday into the death of Edward Watson Harmston, 74, of 2954 Westdowne, who was involved in an accident on Cook Street Monday.

Mr. Harmston died in St. Joseph's hospital early Tuesday.

He had lived in the Victoria area since coming here from England in 1912. For many years he was associated with Builders' Hardware as an estimator. Until his retirement in 1957 he was a member of the Kiwanis Club.

In addition to the widow at home, he is survived by three sons, Capt. E. W. Harmston and WO1 Malcolm J. Harmston, both in Ottawa, and Alag D. Harmston, at home.

FEAR CAN CAUSE CONFLICT, SAYS PANELIST

'War Psychosis' Created by CD

"Civil defence preparations actually increase the danger of war," Mrs. Rosemary Hamilton, marriage counsellor and social worker, said Tuesday night.

One of four panelists debating the question "Civil Defence—Necessity or Nonsense" in St. John Ambulance Hall, Mrs. Hamilton declared:

"Canadians have not responded to the shelter construction program because they don't want to have to live in the savage world that would follow a nuclear war."

FEAR-CAUSED WAR

Mrs. Hamilton argued that fear itself can cause war and she quoted columnist Walter Lippmann as saying:

"A nation can be provoked to suicide" and "digging holes in our basements inspires the fear, pessimism and hatred that lead to conflict."

She said Canada's civil defence program is conditioning the average Canadian towards the "inevitability" of a nuclear war and deflecting the energies of Canadians from "the real job of preventing war."

THREE AGAINST ONE

At the debate, organized by Greater-Victoria Current Affairs Council, civil defence was defended by Commodore V. S. Godfrey, target area director, and attacked by three other panelists—Mrs. Hamilton, Dr. R. H. Wright of B.C. Research Council and Dr. Shan Johal, Capital Region Planning Board.

Dr. Brock Chisholm, former director-general of the World Health Organization, sided with the opposition from the floor by saying that civil defence tends to create a "tolerance of the concept of nuclear war."

USELESS PROGRAM

Dr. Wright said a modest estimate of the cost of providing fallout shelters to the people of Canada would be $1,560,000,000.

"I maintain this is diverting money and material into what is essentially a useless program."

He said the suggested eight-inch roof for a shelter is "just plain nonsense—it might as well be plywood."

Mr. Johal said Canada's "half-hearted" civil defence efforts help to develop a war psychosis.

"The evacuation plans are useless, and to stay in our trail wooden homes is equally hopeless."

SAME IN RUSSIA

Commodore Godfrey replied the civil defence aims at co-ordinating all essential services for any national emergency.

"It is here to stay—governments on both sides of the Iron Curtain have it, and the Soviet plan is much the same as ours, with this essential difference:

"There, 82 per cent of all the males have had some training and are available. Our figure is only five per cent."

Commodore Godfrey admitted that shelters are no protection against blast or heat generated by a bomb, but "the feeling of most of us is ANTARCTICA-BOUND — Like a huge fish preparing to swallow a dragonfly, an Air Force C-124 cargo plane opens its wide doors to take aboard an HU-1B Iroquois helicopter at Carswell AFB, Tex. The plane then took off for Christchurch, New Zealand, staging area for Operation Deepfreeze in the Antarctic. From October to February, two turbine-powered Iroquois helicopters will be used in survey work in the frozen continent.

Castro Curtails Church Activities

CP from AP-Reuters.

HAVANA — Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro said here Tuesday night that any priests, whether Cuban or foreign, who are accused in future of conspiring against the government would be "shipped out to Spain."

The Cuban leader also declared at a prize-giving ceremony here that no further permits would be given for holding religious processions in Cuba. The new order followed clashes here on Sept. 10 between 3,000 Roman Catholics marching in a procession and police and militiamen. One youth was killed in the clashes.

Despite his new orders, Castro declared that "no church in Cuba can say the revolution has interfered with its activity."

'CHURCH UNATTACKED'

"We have never attacked the Catholic Church itself but only fascist priests, and they have left Cuba voluntarily."

Bishop Noza Masvidal, effective head of the Roman Catholic church in Cuba, and 131 priests sailed for Spain from Havana last Sunday. Only about 150 foreign priests are believed to be left in Cuba out of a total of 740 who were here when Castro took power.

Castro said that the religious procession Sept. 10 had been inspired by counter-revolutionaries to coincide with similar processions the same day by Cuban exiles in Miami and in Mexico.

He warned that all Cuban priests involved in future

CUBA SENDS APOLOGY TO CANADA

OTTAWA (UPI) — The Cuban government has expressed its formal regret at the expulsion of nine Canadian priests "by error" from that country and has agreed to pay the expenses of returning them to Cuba, Prime Minister Diefenbaker announced today.

Diefenbaker told the Commons the Cuban government's position was set out in a statement given Canadian ambassador to Havana, George P. Kidd.

The note also contained a pledge by the Castro regime to guarantee the priests' future safety in Cuba, the prime minister added. The Canadians were among a group of Roman Catholic missionaries deported to Spain in recent days by the Castro government.

counter-revolutionary activities would lose their citizenship.

NOT TAKING CHILDREN

He denied rumors that the government is planning a law to take children from their parents and put them under state care. "Who would dream of such madness?" The prime minister said the rumors were part of plans against Cuba "directed abroad by the U.S. state department and inside the country by the Falangist clergy."

Victoria Symphony To Receive $9,000

BY AUDREY JOHNSON

Satisfaction over a $9,000 Canada Council grant announced today for the Victoria Symphony Orchestra, was expressed by president Jack Barclough.

Grant for the forthcoming season in $3,500, less than this city's orchestra received last year.

"Nevertheless it is a great deal more than we expected might be given us," Mr. Barclough said.

LEOPOLDVILLE (AP) —

The pro-Communist Lumumbist named by The Congo's central government last week to take over the administration of Katanga returned empty-handed Tuesday.

Egide Bochely Davidson found himself impeded by a bullet-punctured state of siege at Elisabethville, the provincial capital. He spent his whole stay there at the United Nations-guarded airport, never setting foot within the town.

A UN plane brought him back to Leopoldville.

Pilots told reporters the Katangans have now rigged up anti-aircraft guns around the Elisabethville airport in a bid to prevent both the landing and takeoff of UN planes.

There were unconfirmed rumors that Katanga troops, still roving through much of Elisabethville, captured the UN hospital there.

A spokesman reported that the morale of UN troops in Elisabethville is high, nevertheless.

But there still was no firm news of the situation of 158 Irish soldiers captured at the mining town of Jadotville some 60 miles away.

The UN said it believes they are being treated reasonably well, but nevertheless is gravely concerned for their safety.

UN HOLDS AIRPORT

The UN also reported that the airport of its big Kamina base in North Katanga still is firmly held by Swedish, Irish and Malayan troops, despite Katangan claims that it had been captured.

In Leopoldville flags flew at half staff for the death of Dag Hammarskjöld. Prime Minister Cyrille Adoula declared Tuesday a day of national mourning in honor of a man who was "the protector of small states faced by imperialist menaces and Western neo-colonialism."

The Congo, declared Adoula in a communique, has become the victim of "Western financial power" and "scandalous interference in its internal affairs by certain foreign countries."

Many Western diplomats in the Congolese capital were concerned at the apparent anti-Western gist of Adoula's remarks and fear the death of Hammarskjöld may result in a strengthening of Lumumbist influence in the government.

Adoula is known to be concerned lest the Katanga truce talks result in concessions to Katanga President Moïse Tshombe.

SEND SUPPLIES

In Dublin, informed sources said the Irish government has decided to send additional ammunition and food supplies to its troops serving in the Congo.

Col. Bjorn Egge, UN intelligence chief, said in Ndola, Northern Rhodesia Tuesday that total UN casualties in the Katanga fighting are 11 dead, about 40 wounded and 180 captured.

He listed the dead as two Swedes, five Indians and four Irishmen. He said the Katangan casualties were high, but called Tshombe's claim that 1,000 were killed a gross exaggeration.

DAG SUCCESSOR

West says such a body would paralyze the UN.

Under the stop-gap plan, the UN assembly would name an interim secretary-general to fill for the present the position left vacant by Hammarskjöld's death. The West and many neutrals rallied to the support of the proposal.

Tuesday External Affairs Minister Howard Green, who headed the Canadian delegation at a brief opening of the 16th assembly, met with U.S. State Secretary Dean Rusk and Foreign Secretary Lord Home of Britain. There was no announcement on what they discussed, but presumably among the subjects was the problem of the secretariat.

FEAR DEADLOCK

Soviet opposition heightened fears that the entire question of selecting a new secretary-general would wind up in an East-West deadlock, leaving the UN administration without a leader. But the United States served notice it will press for adoption of the plan.

London press reports today said that Prime Minister Macmillan was ready to fly here from London for the UN meeting if he feels he can save the situation from disaster.

The Daily Mail reported that before the death of Hammarskjöld, Macmillan "was examining the possibility of a British initiative to break the East-West deadlock."

"The argument for his personal intervention now becomes stronger," The Daily Mail said.

Cubans Flee Army

MIAMI (UPI) — Sixty-four Cuban officers and men in Oriente province "went over the hill" last week in the biggest mass desertion yet from Premier Castro's army, travelers from Cuba said today.

of the two agreements was not known publicly until Tuesday. "My guess is the transaction was legal," said Dr. Shrum. "I have a high opinion of the legal staff of the B.C. Electric."

But he added: "There may be other implications."

Mr. Robertson explained today that the trust fund was set up to pay death and retirement benefits to the nine officers who include three men still employed by the crown company: vice-president in charge of operations, Dr. H. L. Purdy; J. H. Steed, chief engineer of electrical operations, and J. C. Ingram, general development manager.

The second agreement was that B.C. Power would have

'Couldn't Get Hands on Money'

Mr. Robertson said the aim of the trust fund was twofold: 1. To provide payments to the officers of B.C. Power Corp. dividends; 2. For terminal payments due upon death or retirement.

He said the amount in the fund was based on the average earnings of the nine men during the past five years.

The private B.C. Electric allowed for such payments in contracts with its officers. But, as there was no advance knowledge at all of how the government would take over the company, provision was made for

Threat of Action for Libel

He said of the premier's comments: "This is obviously an attack designed to draw attention away from the shabby and unfair manner in which the government treated the shareholders of B.C. Electric when it arbitrarily fixed the compensation for what it took from them."

"This issue was already under investigation by B.C. Power lawyers as the basis for a lawsuit."

Asked what the company's plans are now, Mr. Robertson said: "I would prefer not to comment on that at the moment."

Bonner Informed of Agreements

But he also added later Tuesday: "If a man is in this position won't his loyalties be divided?"

Mr. Robertson said he had informed Attorney General Robert Bonner's department of the agreements at the time of the takeover.

He denied that they would be used to take other officials out of the B.C. Electric. It had applied so far only to himself and J. L. McLean, formerly chief financial officer of B.C. Electric, now with B.C. Power.

The fact the trust fund was set up only the day before the takeover was as much a coincidence as the fact Premier Bennett introduced the legislation on the day of the funeral of former B.C. Electric head A. E. Grauer, said Mr. Robertson.

The trust fund agreement was drawn up by three former directors: R. H. B. Ker of Victoria; George T. Cunningham and J. L. Trumbull. They were not involved in the deal.

"The fact is that starting Aug. 1 I told the attorney-general and Gerald Cross, the legislative counsel, about the agreements," said Mr. Robertson.

He said they had not been uncovered later by an investigation by the comptroller general as suggested by the premier.

"It certainly wasn't a deep laid scheme which we feared might some day come to light. We had no hesitation in bringing it to the attorney-general's attention."

'Extraordinary to Say the Least'

"It would not extend to having executives from one company on call to another, which is highly objectionable."

"The notion that one firm should have a call on executives of another under such an agreement is extraordinary to say the least."

"There was general reference in my brief discussions to the VANCOUVER (CP) — Peter Woodward, manager of the B.C. Electric's public information division for the last three years, resigned Monday.

Mr. Woodward, 43, a brother-in-law of the late Dal Grauer, is the sixth official to leave the BCE since the government takeover.

"This is a matter of principle," Mr. Woodward said. "I disagree completely with the course the government has followed in connection with the B.C. Electric. Under the circumstances, I could not stay on."

call on the services of senior officers if the company was taken over by the government.

Premier Bennett said this means the three still working for the company are "serving two masters."

Mr. Purdy said in reply he had resigned as a B.C. Power officer in order to stay on with the government utility and is not bound by the agreements.

Mr. Robertson denied there was anything improper in either agreement.

"Bennett's statements are a smear. If they think there is anything improper, let them sue. If they want to start an investigation in the courts I'll be delighted," he said.

That would be "the proper place to test it," he said.

them to act during expropriation procedure, and to ensure they got their terminal benefits.

The trust fund, held by Montreal Trust Co., was set up in just the same way as the company's pension fund.

It ensured that if the publicly-owned B.C. Electric did not pay the benefits, B.C. Power would pay them.

However, said Mr. Robertson, the nine officers "could not get their hands on the money."

It would be entirely up to B.C. Power whether or not they actually received it.

NOT FOR LONG

Astronomy In Russia Trails West

Russia is still trailing the western world in the field of astronomy, according to Dr. Graham Odgers, senior scientific officer at the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory.

But it may not be for long, said the Canadian astronomer, who recently returned from a visit to the Soviet Union.

He said Russia is planning to lead the world in observational astronomy and eventually build the largest telescope in the world.

But for the present, he said, Russia lagged behind the western world in this field.

50-INCHER

"Russia's largest existing telescope is 50 inches," he said. "This is smaller than the one at Saanich which is 72 inches."

But he added, Russia has under construction a 102-inch telescope which will be as big as the world's third largest. Then it planned to proceed with a 240-inch telescope which would be the world's largest.

FOUR MONTHS

The astronomer spent four months in Russia, lecturing and attending conferences at the Crimean Astrophysical Observatory, the University of Moscow and the main state observatory at Pulkovo.

He was among a delegation of foreign scientists who were permitted to interview Soviet Cosmonaut Yuri Gagarin in Moscow.

"I didn't even read the documents involved until a week or 10 days ago."

"I think it is ridiculous to suggest that every member of a department is privy to a conversation held with everybody else even if it is on the same subject."

"The suggestion that amendments would be sought to obtain approval of agreements under which money had already been paid out must sound very odd in the light of that fact."

"It sounds as though they were attempting without full disclosure of the facts to mislead us into giving approval to an amendment which they must have known the government had no opportunity to study at that time."

"If I said something about incentive agreements, and I probably did, it would have been something about routine agreements."

"My exact advice to Mr. Robertson was that we were not considering any amendment to the bill. My attention was not directed to any specific terms of the contracts."

"I had no occasion to study the documents he left until a week or 10 days ago."

"He has placed a regrettable interpretation on what in the circumstances was a very brief conversation in the course of a very tense and important session."

Registrar John Parnall expects another 400 students to enroll in the next two weeks.

12,400 at UBC

VANCOUVER (CP) — Enrollment at the University of B.C. has reached a record 12,400 students, nearly 2,000 more than last year.

Nine babies were born and 39 operations performed during the month.

50 Treated At Lady Minto

GANGES — The 50 patients treated at Lady Minto Gulf Islands Hospital during August came from Victoria, Vancouver, four of the Gulf Islands, and the United States, according to the monthly report of the hospital board.

'CARELESS' CHARGE DROPPED

$25 Fine Levied Against Gaglardi

A charge of careless driving against Highway Minister P. A. Gaglardi was dropped in Saanich police court Tuesday but he was fined $25 after pleading guilty to passing on the right.

Prosecutor Kenneth Murphy said there was "a reasonable doubt in my mind that the charge of careless driving could be established."

Mr. Murphy explained that at about 5:30 p.m. July 11, Mr. Gaglardi was driving north on the Patricia Bay Highway.

He passed four or five cars on the right hand side of the road near the junction with the West Saanich Road.

"The speed limit there is 30 miles an hour," Mr. Murphy said. "One estimate of the minister's speed was 50, one more than that."

PAVED STRIP

Mr. Gaglardi's counsel, T. P. O'Grady, said the shoulder of the road in this area; for the better part of a mile, was an adjunct to the highway on the right side—a paved strip.

The strip, Mr. O'Grady said, had the appearance of a gravel shoulder "so someone not familiar with it might take exception to its being used for driving."

It was for the use of slower traffic too, but not only, according to the sign, he said. "The signs at that stage are: 'Pullout one-quarter mile ahead,' 'Slower vehicles use right lane,' 'Speed limit 50' and 'Form single line.'"

TOO SLOW

"My client took advantage of this lane when he found himself driving behind a number of cars, which were below the speed limit and in the wrong lane," said Mr. O'Grady. "He turned right and passed them—and has pleaded guilty to this."

"We are not prepared to contend that the lanes here are marked in accordance with the Act. The infraction here is a highly technical matter, and I would ask with respect the court takes this into consideration in sentence."

He pointed out that his client's only offence since 1958 was an illegal turning charge in Vancouver a year ago.

NO SPEEDING

Mr. Gaglardi's traffic record, read to the court, listed two speeding infractions in 1957 and one in September, 1958, plus the turning charge. "I assume there was no speeding," said Magistrate William Ostler, "as there is none contained in the charge."

Auto Workers Sign With GM

DETROIT (UPI) — The United Auto Workers and General Motors reached final agreement on a new three-year national contract today to pave the way for a speedy end to the 10-day strike that has crippled the largest U.S. automaker.

UAW-Walter Reuther said he would recommend that the union's national GM council approve the agreement, reached at a marathon bargaining session at a meeting this afternoon.

He also indicated the council would wash out any plant-level contract disputes still pending and order members back to their jobs.

Antique Dealer Dies After Long Illness

Borge R. Fibiger, well known antique dealer, died at his 378 Newport Avenue home Monday following a prolonged illness. He was 63.

Born in Copenhagen, Denmark, Mr. Fibiger went into the antique business in 1928. In 1948 he came to Victoria and opened the Treasure House which contained one of the finest collections of antiques in British Columbia.

Later he moved to his new establishment, B. R. Fibiger Antiques, at 911 Government.

He is survived by the widow, Ann, at home; four sons, Christian, Peter and Daniel; at home; and John of Lincoln, Nebraska; two daughters, Nanna, at home, and Mrs. E. G. Brown of Victoria; and five sisters in Denmark.

Private funeral services were held today at the Hope Lutheran Church.

New Jet Silencers to Reduce Din at Comox

BY DAVE MCINTOSH

OTTAWA (CP)—The RCAF believes it has licked the noise problem—both for the public and itself—associated with the introduction into service of high-speed jet planes.

Canadian locations involved in a busy sound reducing program are Comox, V.I.; Cartierville, Que.; Ottawa, North Bay, Ont.; Bagotville, Que.; Chatham, N.B. and Namoo, Alta.

The problem will be beaten in two ways: by use of engine silencers during ground run-ups and by working out with the transportation department new flight patterns which will quickly take the planes away from built-up areas.

The two jet planes concerned are the CF-101B Voodoo interceptors for home air defence command and the CF-104 for the RCAF air divisions in Europe.

All CF-101B squadrons will be in operation by the end of next summer.

There will be noise, the air force says. No air force can operate without making noise. But it will be kept to levels which do not cause annoyance or damage.

Here are some comparative figures:

A whisper is rated at 20 decibels, ordinary conversation at 65 decibels, heavy traffic at 80 or more, a noisy factory at 95 and loud thunder at 115.

The J-37 engine of the CF-101B and the J-79 engine of the CF-104 at full bore are rated at 140 decibels at a distance of a quarter-mile.

This level of noise over a period of time can damage body tissues, interfere with the senses, impair brain functions and sometimes open aircraft circuits which are supposed to be closed.

With silencers which look like steel drums and back against the engines, this 140 decibels can be reduced to below 85 decibels or to a low rumble. A man can work in this amount of noise for eight hours without fatigue.

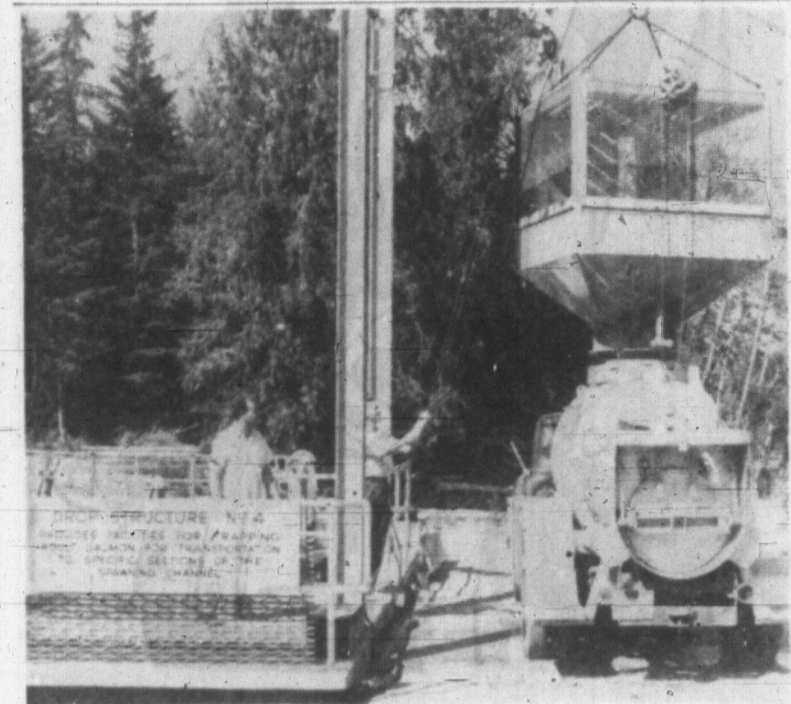

The sites on RCAF stations at which engines are run can be so placed that the noise is not an annoyance for persons living on or near the stations.

Of course, when a jet fighter takes off nothing can be done about noise except to put distance between the plane and the hearer.

This is what the RCAF plans to do whenever and wherever possible.

For instance, flight patterns may be worked out to permit the jets to climb straight up from take-off, thus avoiding over-flying of built-up areas near the airfield.

ACROSS THE PROVINCE

Swain Accused Of Kidnap Bid

(Compiled from CP)

CLOVERDALE—A charge of attempted kidnapping has been laid against a Vancouver man on the complaint of a Surrey school teacher.

RCMP said the charge was laid against Wayne G. King, 23, in connection with the complaint of teacher Bonita Gill that he tried to take her against her will from an elementary school, in the hope of marrying her.

King also is charged with uttering a letter threatening to murder the teacher, with assaulting another teacher at the school and two counts of illegal possession of a firearm. Police said the 21-year-old Miss Gill complained that a man threatened her with a loaded pistol at the school. She said he escaped after scuffling with a male teacher who answered her cries for help.

VANCOUVER—Council Tuesday night unanimously rejected a proposal for a plebiscite on Sunday movies.

The Lord's Day Alliance attacked the proposal and several aldermen said there appears to be no demand for Sunday movies.

President A. E. McManus of the British Columbia Projectionists' Union made the plebiscite application. He said thousands of persons in the city have nothing to do on a Sunday afternoon.

VANCOUVER—A city family has been ordered to behave by the Supreme Court following complaints by an elderly couple next door that the 17-member family's activities are undermining their health.

Mr. Justice R. A. Wooton issued an injunction restraining Mrs. Louise Mariam Amisano, George Camillo and eight members of the family from activities which 71-year-old Richard Thomas Matthews and his 68-year-old wife allege ranged from:

Loud and out-of-tune singing; wild dancing; digging up a nine-foot driveway between the homes; throwing beer bottles and nails on it and telling the person who rents the Matthews' garage not to use it.

The injunction will stand until a damages action reaches court.

VANCOUVER—A man on trial for his life in the knife-murder of his mail-order fiancée told an assize court jury Tuesday he went to see the woman Jan. 8 to ask for the return of an engagement ring, not to kill her.

Guglielmo Pauluzzi was charged with murder after Lovorka Mandic, 37, died from stab wounds at the Victor Golden residence where she was employed as a housekeeper.

Pauluzzi said relatives in Yugoslavia arranged a correspondence meeting between himself and the victim in 1957 and the woman was brought to Canada in 1959. They were to be married, he said.

He added the woman apparently didn't want to marry him and a third party entered the picture and "kept company" with her.

Pauluzzi said he went to the Golden home and asked the woman to return the ring. He said she replied: "What ring?"

"She told me to go away and said I was crazy. I lost my head as a result of what she said. I knew I had wounded her but I don't know how."

He had taken the knife with him because he feared he would meet the other man.

NEW WESTMINSTER—Three men pleaded guilty in police court here to possessing a still for making liquor after a 10-day police stakeout in near-by Surrey that uncovered the unique apparatus.

The still, in an out-of-the-way cabin, was capable of producing 40 gallons of liquor per day, excise officers said. Frank William Dyck, 34, and John Webber, 55, were each fined $500 and costs or six months in jail when they appeared Monday. Robert Clifford McMullen, 40, was fined $100 and costs.

Witnesses said the still had been constructed from an electric hot-water tank and a distillation coil concealed in a 30-gallon drum. Various cables and hoses connected parts of the apparatus.

TERRACE—A weekend motorist told police he didn't believe them when told he had gone through a radar speed check at more than the legal speed. He turned his car around and ran through the checkpoint again—and got a second ticket. He was one of 26 motorists ticketed for speeding in the weekend radar check.

Island Tour Planned For Singers

VANCOUVER (CP)—Leading night club entertainers will warm up in the city, then take their shows to the so-called hinterlands of British Columbia under plans of a new theatrical booking agency now operating here.

FIRST TEST Ben Kopelow, head of Pacific Show Productions Limited, said yesterday the program will get its first test next week when western balladier Marty Robbins moves from Vancouver's biggest night club to Vancouver Island and Interior centres for one-night concert appearances.

The first tour will take Robbins, whose recordings of such gunfighter ballads as "El Paso" have become hit-parade favorites, and 21 supporting performers to Powell River, Alberni, Nanaimo, New Westminster, Kamloops and Vernon, starting in Powell River on Monday and ending in Vernon Saturday.

Mr. Kopelow, a performer, producer, writer and publicist in entertainment here since he came from Winnipeg in 1948, said his company hopes to be able to book three or four big-name acts from the night club scene into the smaller communities across B.C. each year.

Such entertainers as Jimmy Rodgers and the Mills Brothers, who have appeared at night clubs here in the past, have expressed interest in making concert tours of the province, Mr. Kopelow said.

DEER HIDES WANTED BY KIWANIS

NANAIMO—Now that the deer season has opened, Nanaimo Kiwanis Club is after their hides.

The club is seeking 2,000 deer hides, only a fraction of the expected hunting haul in the mid-Island area.

The hides are salted, packed and stored by the club members to be sold in Vancouver. The proceeds are used for various welfare projects of the club.

Last year's collection produced 1,600 hides.

V.I. ROUNDUP

New Municipality South of Duncan Under Discussion

DUNCAN—A move is being discussed to form a district municipality south of Duncan embracing the several growing communities between here and the Malahat.

Services are being given, and more are required as populations rise. For instance, the area is part of School District 65, and is fully contained in the boundaries of Koksilah Valley Hospital Improvement District.

Assessment in the hospital district is a healthy $13,462,062, compared with $5,537,220 in Duncan, $20,809,780 in the portion of North Cowichan municipality within School District 65, and $22,225,569 at Lake Cowichan.

Some of the communities are Koksilah, Cobble Hill, Mill Bay, Cowichan Bay, Eagle Heights, Shawinigan Lake, Glenora, Cowichan Station, Cherry Point, and Sylvan.

Usual obstacles to formation of a new municipality are a lack of cohesion in the area concerned, and lack of any single centre for administration.

All that is required to start the movement is a petition to the department of municipal affairs.

Mayor Leaves

ALBERNI—City council, carrying on business after Mayor Mabel Anderson retired from a meeting, adopted reports regarding a proposed sewer system and right-of-way easements for a diking project.

Mayor Anderson said the special meeting had not been called under the provisions of the Municipal Act. Ald. George Dunbar was nominated by aldermen as chairman for the transaction of business on hand.

Fire Hall Out

GANGES—Salt Spring Island School Board has dashed hopes of the island Chamber of Commerce to build a fire hall in Ganges by refusing to relinquish a piece of land in the village as a fire hall site.

The island recently formed a fire protection district which purchased two new trucks and sponsors the volunteer fire department.

Mass Celebrated

TOFINO—Requiem Mass was held Sunday at Opitsate Reserve for Joseph Jackson, 90-year-old Indian who died at the reserve.

He was born on the reserve and spent all his life on the west coast of the island.

Student Poser

GANGES—Long-standing problem of returning high school students to their homes in the Gulf Islands Friday afternoons will be referred by Salt Spring Island School Board to the B.C. Toll Authority.

The government organization took over operation of the former Gulf Islands Ferry Co. (1951) Ltd. Sept. 1.

Students board at Ganges during the week, and are hopeful that winter schedules will allow them to return to their homes on Saturna, Mayne, Pender, and Galiano Islands.

Galiano parents also hope for a late Sunday afternoon ferry to take their children back to Ganges.

Lion's Tail Sought At 'Outpost'

DUNCAN—Miss Marjorie Ferguson of Maple Bay and London, England, put this community to the test as an "outpost of Empire" when she advertised for "authentic male lion's tail."

Because of the city's reputation as home for a large number of retired army officers who served with Imperial forces all over the world, she figured this was as good a place as any to find the tag end of a lion.

She is employed in London as secretary to James Armstrong, agent-general for Ontario. Mr. Armstrong has a lion pelt in his home, but moths got into the tail and chewed it off.

He asked her to find another tail, but she said a search through Piccadilly's taxidermists was fruitless.

Midway in the search she came here on a holiday to visit her parents at Maple Bay, and decided this was as good a place as any to continue her hunt for a replacement.

Duncan has until Sunday to make good. Then she leaves for London.

Merchants, Not C of C Rapped Bennett

VERNON (CP)—The Retail Merchants' Association here has accused Premier Bennett of playing politics over the location of a new vocational school for the Okanagan district.

The group said Vernon was "the most logical site" and adopted a resolution urging city council to protest the choice of Kelowna, the premier's constituency.

City businessman Bill McKenzie said: "I don't think we should gracefully step down while the premier plays politics with the valley's school."

The Canadian Press erroneously reported Monday that the Chamber of Commerce had made the accusation against the premier.

DE GAULLE TO SHED POWERS

PARIS (UPI) — President Charles de Gaulle announced tonight that he plans to surrender his emergency dictatorial powers at the end of this month.

De Gaulle made the announcement to his cabinet just before leaving for a four-day grassroots speaking tour of the French provinces.

The president took full powers to rule the country under article 16 of the Fifth Republic's constitution at the time of the Algiers revolt last April.

130 MPH WINDS

Hurricane Threatens N. England

CAPE HATTERAS, N.C. (AP) — Hurricane Esther with drew a threat to the North Carolina-Virginia coast today but rumbled off shore on a course which forecasters said would take it close to south-eastern New England Thursday morning.

At noon, EDT, hurricane warnings were hoisted from eastern Long Island, N.Y., to Provincetown, Mass. Winds will increase to gale force tonight and hurricane winds are likely by Thursday morning in this area, pushing three to six feet above normal, the weather bureau at Washington predicted.

Hurricane warnings were lowered at noon from Cape Hatteras, N.C., to the Virginia Capes.

Forecasters estimated highest winds to be about 130 miles an hour near the storm centre. Thousands evacuated the Virginia and Maryland coast areas. Esther, the season's first hurricane to menace the east coast, churned up waves 33 feet high as she labored past the diamond lightship off this coastal point known as the "graveyard of the Atlantic."

Cease-Fire In Katanga

NDOLA, Northern Rhodesia (UPI) — President Moise Tshombe of the Katanga announced tonight that he and United Nations negotiators had agreed on a provisional cease-fire to become effective at one minute after midnight.

Tshombe's announcement to a news conference at Ndola Airport came after a day of negotiations in which each side gloomily hinted at failure and an outbreak of civil war. Central Congolese government troops had been reported invading the province.

Tshombe held two days of talks with UN negotiator Mahmoud Khilari, a Tunisian who flew here from Leopoldville after the death of UN Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld in a plane crash Sunday night. The Tshombe-Khilari agreement must be ratified by UN headquarters.

Earlier, Tshombe had given the United Nations an ultimatum to come up with new proposals by nightfall to end the fighting in Katanga or face further bitter fighting.

Heed Pope's Warning Nikita Tells Catholics

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet Premier Khrushchev welcomed today the recent appeal of Pope John for negotiations to avert war but called on United States President Kennedy, West German Chancellor Adenauer and other Roman Catholics to heed the Pope's "solemn warning."

Khrushchev's statement was in the form of answers to questions from correspondents of the Communist party newspaper Pravda and the government paper Izvestia concerning the Pope's special appeal and mass for peace Sept. 10.

The Pope called "upon the rulers of nations to face squarely the tremendous responsibilities they bear." He asked for sincere negotiations to vindicate truth and justice in order that "force shall not prevail."

The Soviet leader's statement was an unusual if not unprecedented reply to a pope of the Roman Catholic Church.

"As a Communist and Atheist I do not believe in 'the Lord's will,'" said Khrushchev. "But one thing I can say with confidence: The great responsibility of the governments to their peoples, to mankind, requires that they should exert every possible effort and start seeking jointly ways to do away with the vestiges of the Second World War, to eliminate the seeds of tension, to curb the flamboyant bearers of a new world conflagration."

Khrushchev said the Soviet government worked hard to ward off the danger of a new world war by seeking to conclude a German peace treaty. Soviet leaders, he said, were "for a peaceful settlement of all disputed international problems through talks and we can only welcome a call for talks in the interests of peace no matter whence it comes."

"Are such Catholics as J. Kennedy, K. Adenauer and others heeding the 'solemn warning' of the Pope?" he asked.

"John XXIII pays tribute to common sense when he admonishes the governments against a universal catastrophe and urges them to realize the huge responsibility they bear before history. This appeal is a good sign."

Toronto has the highest radioactivity count in the country, but I bet the rest of us'd do better if we really tried.

Can't tell whether the transfer of B.C. Electric funds comes under the heading of Wayward Bus or A Streetcar Named Desire.

At the moment, Canada seems to have more soreheads than warheads.

Highest Since Checks Began

OTTAWA (UPI) — Health Minister J. Waldo Monteith disclosed today that fallout from Soviet nuclear tests has pushed levels in Canada to the highest point in the two years samplings have been made.

He said the level in Toronto on Sept. 16-17 was 470 units, 1,500 times normal.

Monteith said the international commission of radiological protection's maximum permissible tolerance level was 6.6 units maintained over a lifetime.

But he said the present levels "might constitute a health hazard" if maintained for a "sufficient" period.

DROPS QUICKLY

He said the level in Toronto fell from 470 on Sept. 16-17 to 215 on Sept. 17-18. Other figures from the samplings were Ottawa, 90 and 75; Fredericton, N.B., 140 and 90; Montreal 80 and 100 and Windsor, Ont., 200 and 260.

Vancouver had the highest reading in Western Canada with 20 units on Sept. 9. The Vancouver level fell to 3.6 the next day.

The average level in Canada before the resumption of nuclear tests by the Soviet Union on Sept. 1 was 0.14 units. The previous high was 90 recorded in Whitehorse, N.W.T., in the spring following Soviet tests in the fall of 1958.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker told the Commons the figures showed a "flagrant disregard" for humanity on the part of the Soviet Union. He said the figures would be sent to External Affairs Minister Green in New York to be brought to the attention of the United Nations.

Monteith made his statement to the Commons and spoke later with newsmen. He was accompanied by several of his fallout experts.

SHORT-LIVED

One of the advisors, Dr. Peter M. Bird, said the fallout detected over Canada contained short-lived components which were quickly dissipated and were not harmful. He said the actual level of dangerous strontium 90 in the 470 units recorded in Toronto would be 0.3 units based on the 6.6 unit tolerance level.

"I don't think there's any health hazard at the present time," Bird said.

He added, however, that the effect of constant short-lived activity — for example, from continuing tests one right after another — was not known. He said this might be dangerous.

The unit used for measuring the fallout at Canada's 24 sampling stations is nuclear disintegrations per minute per cubic meter of air.

The highest level recorded Sept. 7, the first check after the Soviet tests, was 30 units in Edmonton.

Bird said the level in Toronto might have been so much higher than other centres because of many factors, including

U.S. RECORDS 14TH TEST BY RUSSIA

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Russia today fired its 14th fallout producing nuclear bomb since it resumed testing on Sept. 1.

Announcement of the latest Soviet blast in the atmosphere was made here by the Atomic Energy Commission.

THE AEC said it was set off early today in the vicinity of Novaya Zemlya and had a yield of about a megaton, or equal to a million tons of TNT.

JAPAN THEORY

New Type Bomb Exploded?

TOKYO (AP) — A university professor in Niigata, 180 miles northwest of Tokyo, said today Russia may have detonated a new type of nuclear bomb in its current test series.

Professor Saitaro Koyama of the science faculty said the presumption is based on the fact that uranium-238 found in nuclear bombs before was not detected in "hot" rain that fell over Niigata last weekend, the newspaper Yomiuri reported.

A sharp increase of radioactivity was recorded in rain that fell in Niigata last weekend, Koyama said, but no uranium-238 was uncovered. He said the new-type bomb may be the fifth detonated Sept. 10 in the current test series.

Meanwhile, Tokyo's meteorological agency said the highest amount of radioactivity since Russia began the current test series was detected in the air over Tokyo Sept. 18-19.

Japanese Send Protest

TOKYO (UPI) — Japan told the Soviet Union today the first signs of danger already have appeared in Japan as result of the Russians' testing of nuclear bombs in the current Russian series.

A note dispatched to the Kremlin said Japan "reserved the right to claim indemnity for all damage which may be suffered by the Japanese government and people." The note described the Soviet tests as "reckless."

The note prodded the Soviet Union to reply to the Japanese protest of Sept. 2 against Russia's decision to resume nuclear tests and said "there is an extremely great possibility" Japan will suffer ill effects.

East Germany Readies Draft

BERLIN (UPI) — The East German parliament today unanimously approved a "blank cheque" law authorizing the Communist regime to draft East Germans into the army or any other service in the "defence of the state."

U.S., Russia Agree On Arms 'Principles'

UNITED NATIONS (CP) — United States and Russia reported to the United Nations today that they have failed to reach agreement on a formula for resuming disarmament negotiations but they have agreed on a statement of principle to guide negotiations.

The joint statement of principle puts emphasis on "dis-

banding of armed forces" of all nations and "elimination of all stockpiles of nuclear, chemical, bacteriological and other weapons of mass destruction."

Also declared to be among the aims of total disarmament are the elimination of "all means of delivery" of mass destruction weapons and the abolition of all military training institutions.

RESCUES POLICEMAN

This Burglar a 'Softie'

LONDON (AP) — Constable David Jones told the court he was chasing three men across the London rooftops "when all of a sudden a skylight gave way, beneath me."

"Yes," said the magistrate, "go on."

"I plunged downwards, sir," explained the policeman, "but I managed to grasp a piece of the roof framework."

Jones pointed to Harry Crouch in the dock.

"That one," said the constable, "stopped, came back to where I was dangling and told me, 'all right, guv, I can't leave you to fall through. I give up.'"

"He caught hold of me even though the glass about us was breaking," he nearly went through the roof too."

Jones, who weighs more than 200 pounds, said Crouch hung on to him until other constables arrived. Police had collared the other two men.

"There was nothing I could do but arrest him," said the policeman.

"And there's nothing I can do but send them all for trial," said the magistrate.

He intimated that Crouch's consideration for the policeman would be taken into consideration when the three go on trial charged with breaking and entering.

$360 Million Market Loss Claims Exporters' Chief

Times Business Editor

A chilling examination of what Britain's entry into the European Common Market could mean to Canadian exporters is being made by the U.K. government.

As far as semi-processed and manufactured goods are concerned, Mr. Kinsman sees little hope for Canada but to expect a loss of almost two-thirds of the market in this category, amounting to about $100,000,000 a year.

In addition to losses in the U.K. market, there are losses in other Common Market countries to be considered. Mr. Kinsman estimates that Canada will do something like $170,000,000 less business in these other countries compared to the 1960 total of $432,000,000.

Added up, it represents complete loss of about $360,000,000 in the total E.C.M. market when Britain joins with a further $370,000,000 in U.K. business being made much less profitable.

Perhaps a more graphic way of stating it would be to say that approximately 15 per cent of Canada's total export trade will either vanish or be made only marginally profitable.

A heavy drop in U.S. investment in Canada appears slated for 1962 according to a McGraw-Hill survey of American company plans.

In fact U.S. foreign investment in general will be cut next year by about 4 per cent after jumping 22 per cent this year.

Losses are due to the biggest cut in steel from $720 million this year to $200 million in 1962.

Losses in other areas include a 50 per cent cut in machinery and a 25 per cent cut in chemicals.

Added up, it represents complete loss of about $360,000,000 in the total E.C.M. market when Britain joins with a further $370,000,000 in U.K. business being made much less profitable.

Perhaps a more graphic way of stating it would be to say that approximately 15 per cent of Canada's total export trade will either vanish or be made only marginally profitable.

A heavy drop in U.S. investment in Canada appears slated for 1962 according to a McGraw-Hill survey of American company plans.

In fact U.S. foreign investment in general will be cut next year by about 4 per cent after jumping 22 per cent this year.

Losses are due to the biggest cut in steel from $720 million this year to $200 million in 1962.

Water Project Jolted By Committee's Balk

New Look Ordered At C. Saanich Deal

Current construction of a waterworks system supplying water-short Central Saanich was thrown into sudden jeopardy today.

Victoria-Saanich beaches and parks committee asked for a re-study and report on whether Elk Lake water should be sold to Central Saanich municipality after all.

Sparking the review was Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow who pointed out Victoria has not yet ratified a tentative agreement with Central Saanich.

Under the proposal—which prompted Central Saanich to embark on its first municipal water works scheme—the peninsular municipality would pay $1,000 annually for the right to draw 1,000,000 gallons from Elk Lake.

TWO ANGLES

Ald. Edgelow said this arrangement should be studied from two angles: to see if it should be ratified or killed.

From the city's point of view, the price paid by Central Saanich may be too low "if it turns out they are getting water from us cheaper than we buy it."

From the beaches and parks committee's point of view, no withdrawal of water should be permitted in future if it causes Beaver-Elk Lake levels to drop to the point "where it impairs enjoyment to our own citizens."

WEEDS GREW

He said the dry summer this year reduced the lake level so much that numerous problems cropped up including heavy weed growth, beach shrinkage and exposure of underwater tree stumps and roots dangerous to swimmers and boaters.

"This is a very important matter and it must be thoroughly studied by our water commissioner," he said.

"Central Saanich may have to go to Prospect Lake or some lake in the Highland district to get its water."

"We don't want our citizens

SUMMER'S OVER

Clocks Back To Normal On Sunday

Everything is happening at once, and it all means that summer of 1961 has well and truly "had it."

The autumnal equinox occurs Friday at 11:43 p.m., PDT, and from then until the depths of gloom in December the days will get progressively shorter and the nights longer.

Daylight saving time will end Sunday at 2 a.m. Everyone will turn clocks back one hour and pick up the hour lost last April 30, when daylight saving time started this year.

Weatherman William Mackie has predicted a minimum temperature tonight of 38 degrees in some areas, "way down from the recent balmy minimums in the 50s."

Sept. 30 is the last day of fire season. After that date, and barring orders to the contrary, rubbish burning will be allowed, and loggers may fire up their slash piles.

Leaves are starting to fall and householders will have their own outside fires. But there won't be snow for a little while, the weatherman said today. He predicted clear skies for tonight, and cloud patches but "mainly sunny" Thursday.

Weatherman William Mackie has predicted a minimum temperature tonight of 38 degrees in some areas, "way down from the recent balmy minimums in the 50s."

Sept. 30 is the last day of fire season. After that date, and barring orders to the contrary, rubbish burning will be allowed, and loggers may fire up their slash piles.

Mining Firm May Seek Compensation

Gunderson's Son Involved In Deal

Mining interests in the Peace River country involving the son of B.C. Electric director Einar Gunderson are expected to seek compensation if the giant power project goes ahead as planned.

Derek Gunderson is president of Hudson Hope Mines which has a 10 per cent royalty guarantee from an Alberta firm with three big leases 42 miles upstream from Hudson Hope.

His father is a vice-president and director of the publicly owned B.C. Electric which will build the Peace River project.

THREE DAYS BEFORE

Holders of the three leases, at Branhams Flats, are Gold Bar Holdings Ltd., which acquired them legally just three days before the B.C. government took over B.C. Electric.

The leases are in good standing to the mines department, and were drawn up before any reserves were placed on the area.

Gold Bar has an office in Vancouver at the same address as Gunderson Agencies and Gunderson and Hughes Consultations. Its directors include Derek Gunderson's brother-in-law, John P. Bridgeham.

It is reported that the firm had discussed compensation for flooding when the Peace dam is built with the private promoters' association of Swedish financier Axel Wenner-Gren—before the government took over the project.

Derek Gunderson is reported as saying in Vancouver that he would "walk away from the deal before I will stand by and let anyone make political capital out of the awkward situation that may have developed for my father."

VICTORIA ESTATE

A number of other mineral leases are held by private companies and individuals in the area which will be affected by the Peace project.

They include the Victoria estate of G. H. Aylard, 625 Elliott St.

A representative of the family declined at this time to comment on possible compensation or value of the leases.

U.K. WRITER VISITS HERE

Mac's Finest Hour In Present Crisis?

British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan has still to reach the peak of his stature as a statesman in the opinion of political writer Henry A. Taylor of London.

"The present crisis in world affairs could well be Mr. Macmillan's hour," said Mr. Taylor, interviewed during his first visit to Victoria today.

"As it is, I believe he will go down in history as one of the outstanding prime ministers of the world. In his quiet unshowy way, he has shown great leadership and sterling worth."

'GOOD STRATEGY'

The author of four political biographies, Mr. Taylor makes no secret of his avowed conservatism and declares the Macmillan government is "surviving" its recent austerity measures.

"It is good strategy to wait two years after being elected before introducing unpopular legislation," he smiled.

The British people are naturally rather browned off by this return to austerity so long after the war, but I think they realize it is necessary for our economic stability."

Mr. Taylor has two sons, both of whom migrated from London to Vancouver. One is working for The Canadian Press; the other is a social worker at Haney Correctional Institute.

"They chose a very interesting part of the world," commented their father, "and your B.C. government is nothing if not controversial."

Mr. Taylor said the recent take-over of the B.C. Electric by Premier Bennett's government received considerable publicity in Britain and much has been written about the premier himself.

"He is certainly a controversial figure."

One of Mr. Taylor's books, "The Strange Case of Andrew Bonar Law," is the story of the only Canadian to become prime minister of Great Britain. His latest, "The British Press," is a critical survey of British newspapers in general.

NOBODY'S COURTING OLD COURTHOUSE

What is to become of Victoria's historic courthouse on Bastion Square when the new courthouse on Cathedral Hill is opened next spring? Neither the provincial government, the city council nor the public seems to care. So the historical buildings committee of Victoria Chamber of Commerce has called an emergency meeting to see what can be done before it is too late. (Times photo.)

MONTE ROBERTS

One or two, or possibly three, of the more loyal constituents have been thoughtful enough to ask whatever you been doing for the past couple of weeks?

In answer to these solicitous inquiries, I can only reply: What I have been doing is not working.

This seems to be a trend in modern living. Every once in a while, the kindly management tells me to please go away, and not work.

The general idea appears to be to have a rest. Although, in my particular case, I am not sure who is getting the rest, the kindly management or me.

But now that I am back at what is laughingly called "work," I find I am faced with questions from my co-workers, such as:

Where did you go on your holidays?

I am hard put to it to answer this question intelligently. Usually when I "go" on my holidays, I use the first two or three days planning where I will "go" to spend the next few days.

And I spend the next few days planning where I will "go" next because I didn't "go" where I planned to go.

But this year, when the kindly management told me to buzz off for two weeks, I was feeling rather worn down, tired, and sort of tattle-tale grey all over.

So I didn't really have the strength to plan where to go, or, to put it more precisely, where to NOT go.

Usually I find considerable relaxation in planning where I would go if I were going anywhere, and then sitting back and enjoying the not going.

This year—I must be getting old or something—I could not summon up the energy to think of a place to not go.

The only way I can rationalize this is to quote (no doubt inaccurately) figures which prove that 1 million 400 thousand people came to the Greater Victoria area on their holidays this year.

(This may be 400 million 1 thousand . . . I am not much good at figures.)

Anyway you look at it, though, 1 million 400 thousand (or 400 million 1 thousand) people can't be wrong.

If all those people go (or come) to Victoria on their holidays, why should I be the non-conformist who fights the inevitable?

I didn't go anywhere during my two weeks to not work, because I was already there.

TOPICS OF THE DAY

The new honorary president of the Esquimalt Branch, No. 172, Royal Canadian Legion, will be introduced to members at the first fall meeting to night at 8 at the Legion Hall, 622 Admirals Road. Curling activities and the sponsorship of juvenile hockey will be discussed.

Western Speedway Race-track on Millstream Road is among lands going up for auction at a provincial government tax sale Sept. 27.

However, owner Andre Cotten can retain the property by paying up back taxes totalling more than $800.

We expect all to pay the taxes owing," said a provincial finance official.

Langford firemen fought for three hours Tuesday to extinguish a brush fire on Goldstream Road. Every time it seemed to die down, a gust of wind whipped it into life again.

The fire started on a narrow vacant lot that stretches from Goldstream to Brock with a path through the centre. About one acre burned.

Wind and wave helped deliver a note to Mr. and Mrs. D. G. Macpherson of Redmond, near Seattle, 14 days after it was cast adrift in a bottle off Victoria.

Gregory Howarth, six-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. William Howarth, 3245 Admirals, put a thank-you note for his visit to the Macphersons in a bottle and tossed it into the Strait of Juan de Fuca.

Mrs. B. E. Sherman of Port Angeles found the bottle and forwarded the note by mail.

Gordon Robert Cadwell, 716 Kings, was fined $100 in Sooke RCMP court Tuesday after being convicted of gillnetting salmon out of season.

The charge—to which Cadwell pleaded not guilty—was laid under the Fisheries Act.

He contended it was possible to catch salmon which already had the mark of a gillnet upon them. He said he had been trolling at the time—Aug. 20.

Prosecution said accused's contention could be allowed for a small percentage of the fish caught. However, six out of seven salmon in his possession bore gillnet marks.

The salmon—plus a quantity of sturgeon—were forfeited to the Crown.

The League of Roses (Lanes and Yorks), is scheduled to meet on Thursday at 8 p.m. in the Newstead Hall, 734 Fort Street.

Rev. A. S. McLeod will be inducted as minister of St. Aidan's United Church at 8 tonight.

Services will be conducted by Rev. Alexander Calder, presbytery chairman, assisted by Dr. S. Parsons of Centennial United Church and Rev. Cecil Whitmore of Sidney United.

Trevor Caley, 160 George East, and John Edward Fyfe, 3440 Quadra, each were fined $20 in city police court today after pleading guilty to being minors in possession of liquor.

Caley was checked by police in Memorial Arena Sept. 8 and found to have a bottle of beer in his possession. Fyfe was checked in the arena washroom the same day and had some rye whiskey.

Victoria Motorcycle Club today was given permission by Victoria-Saanich beaches and parks committee to hold a hill climbing competition Thanksgiving Day, Oct. 9, on the west slope of Mount Douglas.

NON-COMMITTAL

Letters were written to Public Works Minister W. N. Chant and Mayor Percy Scurrell, but non-committal replies were received.

"It is now apparent that the provincial government has abandoned any immediate plans for the old courthouse," he said. "With this decision goes our chief hope for a start on the restoration of this area."

The plan to locate a parking building in the centre of this district would probably remove forever any hope of restoring the area—at least from a historical standpoint.

A special city council meeting was scheduled today for 2 p.m. Friday when adoption of several bylaw amendments and tenders for painting cluster light standards and top soil purchased for parks are considered.

Victoria Chamber of Commerce president A. E. Walters and chamber manager John Coppinger leave at the end of next week for the annual meeting of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce in Halifax, Oct. 2, 3 and 4.

Historic Site Plan Feared Abandoned

The B.C. government has evidently abandoned all plans for using the old courthouse on Bastion Square as an historical site, Dr. C. H. Borsman, chairman of Victoria Chamber of Commerce historical buildings committee, said today.

Because of this, Dr. Borsman has called an emergency meeting of the committee, and has invited a number of influential citizens to give their views "before it is too late."

MEETING MONDAY

The meeting will be held in the Chamber's new offices in the Bank of Montreal Building, 1225 Douglas Street, Monday at 4 p.m.

Roderick Clack, another member of the committee, said public apathy could be largely to blame for the government's evident decision to do nothing about the courthouse as an historical site.

"As matters stand, it seems likely they will use it for extra office space. This is a tragedy. The courthouse could be made into a really worthwhile attraction for tourists—and everyone would benefit."

Mr. Clack said at one time the government had considered spending about $300,000 on the restoration of Bastion Square and the courthouse.

DETERIORATING

"The public generally showed so little interest I think they decided not to spend anything. But money will have to be spent on the courthouse sooner or later. It is deteriorating fast."

Mr. Clack said he was not in favor of trying to raise this money from the public.

"They have enough calls on their purse as it is. I think the matter would have to be handed through the Capital Improvement District Commission or the public works department."

Dr. Borsman recalled that, at the last meeting of the committee, it was decided to await some action by the B.C. government and the city of Victoria on the preservation of historic buildings in general.

Letters were written to Public Works Minister W. N. Chant and Mayor Percy Scurrell, but non-committal replies were received.

JOHN ROCKINGHAM to Edmonton

Command Post Given Ex-Victorian

Maj. Gen. John M. Rockingham, who gave up a promising business career in Victoria to return to the Canadian Army during the Korean War, will become general officer commanding the Western Command Oct. 1, it was announced Tuesday.

Gen. Rockingham, who has headed the Quebec Command for the past four years, will take over at Edmonton from Maj. Gen. Geoffrey Walsh, who becomes chief of the Canadian general staff.

BRUSH-CUTTER

Born in Australia on Aug. 24, 1911, Gen. Rockingham moved to Victoria as a young boy. He went to work for the B.C. Electric in 1933, and cut brush ahead of line crews in his first job.

He was progressing rapidly within the company when he was mobilized as a lieutenant in the Canadian Scottish in September, 1939.

During the war he commanded the Royal Hamilton Light Infantry and later the 9th Canadian Infantry Brigade in Europe. He was to have commanded a brigade in the Canadian Army Pacific Force after the war in Europe ended, but returned to civilian life here shortly after the Japanese surrender.

BACK TO WAR

Gen. Rockingham resumed his business career with the B.C. Electric, and had just received an important promotion when, in August, 1950, Lt. Gen. Charles Foulkes, then chief of the general staff, telephoned him.

"Want to go back to war?" asked Gen. Foulkes.

"Give me 20 minutes to make up my mind," was the reply.

A few days later, Gen. Rockingham was back in uniform, and not long after was in command of Canada's 25th brigade in Korea.

SHOPPING GUIDE

That Daughter of Yours Will Be 'Borrowing' Them

By PENNY SAVER

Just because you can't qualify as a member of the teenage set any longer is no reason why you shouldn't look as pretty as a picture in a new sweater and cardigan set. Particularly designed with you in mind are attractive sets I've seen selling at $10.95. Made from English wool and manufactured in Canada, they can be hand-washed and come up as lovely as the day you bought them.

Cardigans have a smart three-quarter-length sleeve and neck edges and cuffs are bordered with a basket weave pattern.

Triangular pockets are set in front edges and highlighting these and front of matching short-sleeved sweater is embroidery scroll work. Neckline of sweater is high rising and one customer told me that she reverses it at times so that it makes a sleeve sweater to wear under her best suit.

Sets come in either yellow, aqua, red, turquoise, pine green, white or teal-blue and are available in sizes 36 to 44.

Bought separately, cardigans sell at $6.95, while sweaters are priced at $5.95.

They're as much fun as a wagonload of monkeys—maybe, because that's exactly what they are! One enterprising woman's church group is making the most mischievous stuffed monkeys you ever saw that sell at $3 at store I was in. They are made of men's heavy socks and stuffed with nylon stockings and there's absolutely nothing that can harm the young owner. Mothers will bless you for your choice of gift, too—they can be popped into a washing machine and washed with-out any risk at all.

If you're a sweater girl or are interested in buying one of these toys, give Penny a ring at EV 2-131 for further details.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Teeth Braces Aren't Just For Kids—Adults Profit, Too

When we think of braces on the teeth, we think of children. At one time most of the orthodontist's patients were children. Today, more and more adults are wearing braces and orthodontics is achieving excellent results with an increasing number of adults.

"Crooked or protruding teeth, or those which are badly spaced, may have repercussions on both health and personality. They may lead to pyorrhea and tooth decay and an inadequate chewing surface. They may also cause unattractive facial mannerisms, such as the habit of pulling the upper lip down over the teeth when smiling.

Whenever possible, tooth irregularities should be corrected. Of course, if this is impossible, the vibrant, outgoing person forgets the defect and lives happily anyway. However, some people are severely affected by physical defects.

A 42-year-old school teacher with unsightly teeth had to be taught to smile after dental correction. She had to learn to use weakened muscles which, when gradually strengthened, lifted the corner of her drooping mouth. As you can imagine, her personality also changed greatly.

The principles of orthodontics for adults are the same, generally, as those for children, although there may be some variations in the techniques used. It may take longer to correct the same problem in an adult than in a child since children's bones are more responsive to pressure than adults are.

The appliances worn by an adult may range from a strap-like cap with appliances attached, worn only at home and during sleep, to appliances which are cemented into the mouth and are removed only by the orthodontist. Simple

HE LOOKS YOUNG... SHE'S LOOKING OLDER!

Unfair—yet how often you've heard such comments about husband and wife! When age begins to show in a woman's face, it's generally due to skin dryout—a condition caused by lack of natural oils and moisture. The skin coarsens, little lines and frown's feet appear. But you can treat this problem—with POND'S SKIN CREAM. This famous cream contains Allantoin—a remarkable substance that starts repair work in just 10 minutes! Allantoin floats off lifeless surface cells, opens the way for Pond's rich moisturized lanolin to penetrate deep-down. Almost overnight, your complexion becomes softer, smoother, younger-looking! Prevent skin dryout. Get POND'S SKIN CREAM. In jar or tube, wherever cosmetics are sold.

DEAR ABBY

On Guard!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: My eleven-year-old daughter is very friendly with everyone in the neighborhood, and frequently visits the neighbors. She gets along well with adults, as well as with children, and everyone welcomes her into their homes.

My problem is one nosy neighbor who makes it her business to know everybody else's. She asks my daughter questions about who visits us, what we served, what he talked about, and so forth. You know, Abby, 11-year-olds don't always have the best judgment... therefore this old buttinsky gets a lot of information I would rather she didn't have. Should I call on this busybody and set her straight? Or should I tell my daughter not to go over there any more?

PROJECT DWELLER.

DEAR DWELLER: Tell your daughter that it isn't "nice" to tell neighbors what goes on at home. And if this neighbor asks questions that are none of her business, your little girl should avoid her or reply, "Why don't you ask my mother?"

DEAR ABBY: I recently lost my precious mother. Although she was ill a long time, when she finally passed on I was shocked and heart-broken. Out of respect to my mother's memory I want to wear black and refrain from entertain-ment for at least three months.

My husband and friends tell me that I am foolish and old-fashioned, and that nobody does this any more. I need an outside opinion.

IN MOURNING.

DEAR IN: Pay no attention to what your husband and friends say. Do what your heart dictates. P.S. Many people go into mourning for a full year.

"Are things rough?" Let Abby help you solve your problem. For a personal reply enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope and send to 205 Park Rd., Burlingame, Calif.

ANTARCTICA-BOUND — Like a huge fish preparing to swallow a dragonfly, an Air Force C-124 cargo plane opens its wide doors to take aboard an HU-1B Iroquois helicopter at Carswell AFB, Tex. The plane then took off for Christchurch, New Zealand, staging area for Operation Deepfreeze in the Antarctic. From October to February, two turbine-powered Iroquois helicopters will be used in survey work in the frozen continent.

Castro Curtails Church Activities

CP from AP-Reuters

HAVANA — Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro said here Tuesday night that any priests, whether Cuban or foreign, who are accused in future of conspiring against the government would be "shipped out to Spain."

The Cuban leader also declared at a prize-giving ceremony here that no further permits would be given for holding religious processions in Cuba. The new order followed clashes here on Sept. 10 between 3,000 Roman Catholics marching in a procession and police and militiamen. One youth was killed, in the clashes.

Despite his new orders, Castro declared that "no church in Cuba can say the revolution has interfered with its activity."

'CHURCH UNATTACKED'

"We have never attacked the Catholic Church itself but only fascist priests, and they have left Cuba voluntarily."

Bishop Noza Masvidal, effective head of the Roman Catholic church in Cuba, and 131 priests sailed for Spain from Havana last Sunday. Only about 150 foreign priests are believed to be left in Cuba out of a total of 740 who were here when Castro took power.

Castro said that the religious procession Sept. 10 had been inspired by counter-revolutionaries to coincide with similar processions the same day by Cuban exiles in Miami and in Mexico.

He warned that all Cuban priests involved in future counter-revolutionary activities would lose their citizenship.

MORE THAN EXPECTED

Victoria Symphony To Receive $9,000

BY AUDREY JOHNSON

Satisfaction over a $9,000 Canada Council grant announced today for the Victoria Symphony Orchestra, was expressed by president Jack Barracough.

Grant for the forthcoming season in $3,500 less than this city's orchestra received last year.

"Nevertheless it is a great deal more than we expected might be given us," Mr. Barracough said.

LEOPOLDVILLE (AP) —

The pro-Communist Lumumbist named by The Congo's central government last week to take over the administration of Katanga returned empty-handed Tuesday.

Egide Bouchely-Davidson found himself impeded by a bullet-punctured state of siege at Elisabethville, the provincial capital. He spent his whole stay there at the United Nations-guarded airport, never setting foot within the town.

A UN plane brought him back to Leopoldville.

Pilots told reporters the Katangans have now rigged up anti-aircraft guns around the Elisabethville airport in a bid to prevent both the landing and takeoff of UN planes.

There were unconfirmed rumors that Katanga troops, still roving through much of Elisabethville, captured the UN hospital there.

A spokesman reported that the morale of UN troops in Elisabethville is high, nevertheless.

But there still was no firm news of the situation of 158 Irish soldiers captured at the mining town of Jadotville some 60 miles away.

The UN said it believes they are being treated reasonably well, but nevertheless is gravely concerned for their safety.

UN HOLDS AIRPORT

The UN also reported that the airport of its big Kamina base in North Katanga still is firmly held by Swedish, Irish and Malayan troops, despite Katanga claims that it had been captured.

In Leopoldville flags flew at half staff for the death of Dag Hammarskjold. Prime Minister Cyrille Adoula declared Tuesday a day of national mourning in honor of a man who was "the protector of small states faced by imperialist menaces and Western neo-colonialism."

The Congo, declared Adoula in a communique, has become the victim of "Western financial power" and "scandalous interference in its internal affairs by certain foreign countries."

Many Western diplomats in the Congolese capital were concerned at the apparent anti-Western gist of Adoula's remarks and fear the death of Hammarskjold may result in a strengthening of Lumumbist influence in the government.

Adoula is known to be concerned lest the Katanga truce talks result in concessions to Katanga President Moïse Tshombe.

SEND SUPPLIES

In Dublin, informed sources said the Irish government has decided to send additional ammunition and food supplies to its troops serving in the Congo.

Col. Bjorn Egge, UN intelligence chief, said in Ndola, Northern Rhodesia Tuesday that total UN casualties in the Katanga fighting are 11 dead, about 40 wounded and 180 captured.

He listed the dead as two Swedes, five Indians and four Irishmen. He said the Katanga casualties were high, but called Tshombe's claim that 1,000 were killed a gross exaggeration.

DAG SUCCESSOR

West says such a body would paralyze the UN.

Under the stop-gap plan, the UN assembly would name an interim secretary-general to fill for the present the position left vacant by Hammarskjold's death. The West and many neutrals rallied to the support of the proposal.

Tuesday External Affairs Minister Howard Green, who headed the Canadian delegation at a brief opening of the 16th assembly, met with U.S. State Secretary Dean Rusk and Foreign Secretary Lord Home of Britain. There was no announcement on what they discussed, but presumably among the subjects was the problem of the secretary-general.

FEAR DEADLOCK

Soviet opposition heightened fears that the entire question of selecting a new secretary-general would wind up in an East-West deadlock, leaving the UN administration without a leader. But the United States served notice it will press for adoption of the plan.

London press reports today said that Prime Minister Macmillan was ready to fly here from London for the UN meeting if he feels he can save the situation from disaster.

The Daily Mail reported that before the death of Hammarskjold, Macmillan "was examining the possibility of a British initiative to break the East-West deadlock."

"The argument for his personal intervention now becomes stronger," The Daily Mail said.

Cubans Flee Army

MIAMI (UPI) — Sixty-four Cuban officers and men in Oriente province "went over the hill" last week in the biggest mass desertion yet from Premier Castro's army, travelers from Cuba said today.

... TRUST FUND

of the two agreements was not known publicly until Tuesday.

"My guess is the transaction was legal," said Dr. Shrum. "I have a high opinion of the legal staff of the B.C. Electric."

But he added: "There may be other implications."

Mr. Robertson explained today that the trust fund was set up to pay death and retirement benefits to the nine officers who include three men still employed by the crown company, vice-president in charge of operations, Dr. H. L. Purdy; J. H. Steed, chief engineer of electrical operations, and J. C. Ingram, general development manager.

The second agreement was that B.C. Power would have call on the services of senior officers if the company was taken over by the government.

Premier Bennett said this means the three still working for the company are "serving two masters."

Mr. Purdy said in reply he had resigned as a B.C. Power officer in order to stay on with the government utility and is not bound by the agreements.

Mr. Robertson denied there was anything improper in either agreement.

"Bennett's statements are a smear. If they think there is anything improper, let them sue. If they want to start an investigation in the courts I'll be delighted," he said.

That would be "the proper place to test it," he said.

'Couldn't Get Hands on Money'

Mr. Robertson said the aim of the trust fund was twofold:

1. To provide payments to the officers of B.C. Power Corp. dividends;

2. For terminal payments due upon death or retirement.

He said the amount in the fund was based on the average earnings of the nine men during the past five years.

The private B.C. Electric allowed for such payments in contracts with its officers. But as there was no advance knowledge at all of how the government would take over the company, provision was made for them to act during expropriation procedure, and to ensure they got their terminal benefits.

The trust fund, held by Montreal Trust Co., was set up in just the same way as the company's pension fund.

It ensured that if the publicly-owned B.C. Electric did not pay the benefits, B.C. Power would pay them.

However, said Mr. Robertson, the nine officers "could not get their hands on the money."

Threat of Action for Libel

He said of the premier's comments: "This is obviously an attack designed to draw attention away from the shabby and unfair manner in which the government treated the shareholders of B.C. Electric when it arbitrarily fixed the compensation for what it took from them."

This issue was already under investigation by B.C. Power lawyers as the basis for a lawsuit.

Asked what the company's plans are now, Mr. Robertson said: "I would prefer not to comment on that at the moment."

Bonner Informed of Agreements

But he also added later Tuesday: "If a man is in this position won't his loyalties be divided?"

Mr. Robertson said he had informed Attorney General Robert Bonner's department of the agreements at the time of the takeover.

He denied that they would be used to take other officials out of the B.C. Electric. It had applied so far only to himself and J. L. McLean, formerly chief financial officer of B.C. Electric, now with B.C. Power.

The fact the trust fund was set up only the day before the takeover was as much a coincidence as the fact Premier Bennett introduced the legislation on the day of the funeral of former B.C. Electric head A. E. Grauer, said Mr. Robertson.

The trust fund agreement was drawn up by three former directors: R. H. B. Ker of Victoria, George T. Cunningham and J. L. Trumbull. They were not involved in the deal.

"The fact is that starting Aug. 1 I told the attorney general and Gerald Cross, the legislative counsel, about the agreements," said Mr. Robertson.

He said they had not been uncovered later by an investigation by the comptroller general as suggested by the premier.

"It certainly wasn't a deep laid scheme which we feared might some day come to light. We had no hesitation in bringing it to the attorney general's attention."

'Extraordinary to Say the Least'

"It would not extend to having executives from one company on call to another, which is highly objectionable."

"The notion that one firm should have a call on executives of another under such an agreement is extraordinary to say the least."

"There was general reference in my brief discussions to the question of incentive agreements, which are normal enough, and excited no curiosity on my part. But details were not discussed, nor was there any disclosure that any money had been paid under such an agreement."

"My exact advice to Mr. Robertson was that we were not considering any amendment to the bill. My attention was not directed to any specific terms of the contracts."

"I had no occasion to study the documents he left until a week or 10 days ago."

"He has placed a regrettable interpretation on what in the circumstances was a very brief conversation in the course of a very tense and important session."

Astronomy In Russia Trails West

Russia is still trailing the western world in the field of astronomy, according to Dr. Graham Odgers, senior scientific officer at the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory.

But it may not be for long, said the Canadian astronomer, who recently returned from a visit to the Soviet Union.

He said Russia is planning to lead the world in observational astronomy and eventually build the largest telescope in the world.

But for the present, he said, Russia lagged behind the western world in this field.

50-INCHER
"Russia's largest existing telescope is 50 inches," he said. "This is smaller than the one at Saanich which is 72 inches."

But, he added, Russia has under construction a 102-inch telescope which will be as big as the world's third largest. Then it planned to proceed with a 240-inch telescope which would be the world's largest.

FOUR MONTHS
The astronomer spent four months in Russia, lecturing and attending conferences at the Crimean Astrophysical Observatory, the University of Moscow and the main state observatory at Pulkovo.

He was among a delegation of foreign scientists who were permitted to interview Soviet Cosmonaut Yuri Gagarin the day after his arrival in Moscow.

VANCOUVER (CP) — A Molotov cocktail was hurled through the window of a Vancouver tire company late Tuesday after a company official received a telephone threat about labor trouble.

The home-made kerosene bomb set fire to 12 tires at Allied Tire Service shortly before midnight.

The company is an agent for the B. F. Goodrich Company. Four employees of a Goodrich branch are on strike.

K. P. Snook said he had received a telephone call from "some union" that members of his firm had crossed the Goodrich picket line. "There will be trouble if it happens again," Snook said he was told.

Snook told police the caller threatened that they would be "picketed and put out of business."

'CARELESS' CHARGE DROPPED

WED., SEPT. 20, 1961

A charge of careless driving against Highways Minister R. A. Gagliardi was dropped in Saanich police court Tuesday but he was fined $25 after pleading guilty to passing on the right.

Prosecutor Kenneth Murphy said there was "a reasonable doubt in my mind that the charge of careless driving could be established."

Mr. Murphy explained that at about 5:30 p.m., July 11, Mr. Gagliardi was driving north on the Patricia-Bay Highway.

He passed four or five cars on the right hand side of the road near the junction with the West Saanich Road.

"The speed limit there is 50 miles an hour," Mr. Murphy said. "One estimate of the minister's speed was 50, one more than that."

PAVED STRIP
Mr. Gagliardi's counsel, T. P. O'Grady, said the shoulder of the road in this area, for the better part of a mile, was an adjunct to the highway on the right side of a paved strip.

The strip, Mr. O'Grady said, had the appearance of a gravel shoulder "so someone not familiar with it might take exception to its being used for driving."

It was for the use of slower traffic too, but not only, according to the sign, he said.

The signs at that stage are: "Pullover zone - quarter mile ahead," "Slower vehicles use right lane," "Speed limit 50," and "Form single line."

TOO SLOW
"My client took advantage of this lane when he found himself driving behind a number of cars which were below the speed limit and in the wrong lane," said Mr. O'Grady. "He turned right and passed them — and has pleaded guilty to this."

"We are not prepared to contend that the lanes here are marked in accordance with the Act. The infraction here is a highly technical matter, and I would ask with respect the court takes this into consideration in sentence."

He pointed out that his client's only offence since 1958 was an illegal turning charge in Vancouver a year ago.

NO SPEEDING
Mr. Gagliardi's traffic record, read to the court, listed two speeding infractions in 1957 and one in September, 1958; plus the turning charge.

"I assume there was no speeding," said Magistrate William Ostler, "as there is none contained in the charge."

TSHOMBE REVEALS PACT

NDOLA, Northern Rhodesia (UPI) — President Moise Tshombe of the Katanga announced tonight that he and United Nations negotiators had agreed on a provisional cease-fire to become effective at one minute after midnight.

Tshombe's announcement to a news conference at Ndola Airport came after a day of negotiations in which each side gloomily hinted at failure and an outbreak of civil war. Central Congolese government troops had been reported invading the province.

Tshombe held two days of talks with UN negotiator Mahmoud Khari, a Tunisian who flew here from Leopoldville after the death of UN Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld in a plane crash Sunday night. The Tshombe-Khari agreement must be ratified by UN headquarters.

Earlier, Tshombe had given the United Nations an ultimatum to come up with new proposals by nightfall to end the fighting in Katanga or face further bitter fighting.

Dief Waits Arms Talk Outcome

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Diefenbaker said today national security will be the overriding consideration in the government's decision on whether to acquire nuclear warheads for Canadian forces in Canada.

He added in the Commons that no decision has been taken by the government and that speculation to the contrary is based on nothing more than the views of those who want the government to take a final stand.

This speculation did not take into full regard the international situation.

Mr. Diefenbaker also said important Western disarmament proposals will be laid before the United Nations General Assembly by the United States.

It was hoped the proposals would bring about a new attitude in the disarmament field, he added.

EXPECT DELAY

The statement led to immediate speculation that Canada will not make a decision on nuclear weapons at least until after a disarmament discussion in the UN.

Mr. Diefenbaker was replying to questions by Opposition Leader Pearson concerning Washington reports that President Kennedy has written a personal letter to the prime minister concerning nuclear policy.

Mr. Diefenbaker said he does not intend to refer to any personal correspondence. Discussions were going on "at all times" at all levels.

But no agreement had been arrived at on nuclear weapons. Any rumor to the contrary had no foundation in fact.

Canada had undertaken to increase its conventional forces.

'TROIKA' OPPOSED BY CANADA

OTTAWA (UPI) — Canada flatly rejects the Soviet Union's proposal for a three-man "troika" to succeed the late United Nations secretary-general Dag Hammarskjöld, Prime Minister Diefenbaker said today.

He said adoption of the troika system would mean "nothing controversial or unacceptable to the U.S.S.R. could ever be done by the United Nations."

Jockey Ventrella Injured in Spill

Jockey Al Ventrella escaped with scratches and a badly bruised leg in a spectacular spill during the running of the first race at Sandown Park this afternoon.

The accident took place about 15 yards past the wire. Ventrella, aboard Saanich Prince, which ran second to Berna Lee in a close finish, appeared to let his mount's head drop and he went flying out of his saddle on the track. Remainder of the field of four thoroughbreds went over the top of the boy and he was lucky to escape with minor injuries.

Doctors at Rest Haven Hospital reported "no breaks" after taking X-rays. The rider will be detained in hospital overnight.

With a half holiday for many people today's card drew a good crowd and betting was reported over Friday, opening day.

Palo Vini won the second race and combined with Berna Lee for a $15.50 daily double.

U.S., Russia Agree On Arms 'Principles'

UNITED NATIONS (CP) — United States and Russia reported to the United Nations today that they have failed to reach agreement on a formula for resuming disarmament negotiations but they have agreed on a statement of principle to guide negotiations. The joint statement of principle puts emphasis on "disbanding of armed forces" of all nations and "elimination of all stockpiles of nuclear, chemical, bacteriological and other weapons of mass destruction." Also declared to be among the aims of total disarmament are the elimination of "all means of delivery" of mass destruction weapons and the abolition of all military training institutions.

LAWYERS PROBE BCE TRUST FUND

Lawsuits Possible

By FRANK RUTTER
Times Legislative Reporter

B.C. Electric lawyers today are investigating an $820,808 trust fund set up for officers of the company just before the provincial government took it over Aug. 1.

Disclosure of the fund, as well as an agreement on jobs for top-ranking BCE officers with the utility's parent company, B.C. Power Corp., was made Tuesday by Premier Bennett.

It fired up anew the running battle over the whole takeover between the premier and B.C. Power chairman A. Bruce Robertson, and raised the prospect of each side launching a lawsuit.

The premier questioned "the propriety" of the two actions. This brought the immediate invitation from Mr. Robertson: "Let them sue."

At the same time, Mr. Robertson is believed ready to launch a suit on behalf of B.C. Power against terms of the B.C. Electric takeover and compensation to shareholders.

Asked today if B.C. Electric planned to recover the $820,808 trust fund for nine officers of the old company, the crown agency's chairman, Dr. Gordon Shrum, replied:

"I have asked the legal people to examine the documents."

"I haven't had their opinion yet."

Dr. Shrum said he had started the legal inquiry about a week ago, although existence

Still in Air

UNITED NATIONS (CP) — The United Nations General Assembly quickly elected Tunisian delegate Mongi Slim as its president today, but no agreement was in sight on the critical problem of choosing a successor to the late Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld.

The moderate North African received all 66 votes cast after Indonesian Ambassador Ali Sastroamidjojo had withdrawn from the race.

He took over the chair from the outgoing president, Frederick H. Boland of Ireland.

Slim referred at once to the death of Hammarskjöld, which has overshadowed the normal routine organizational procedure at the opening meetings of the current assembly.

SHINING EXAMPLE

"The shining example that Mr. Hammarskjöld has given us should be an inspiration to all of us in this assembly," Slim said.

IN EASTERN CANADA

Radiation Hits Record Levels

OTTAWA (UPI) — Health Minister J. Waldé Monteth disclosed today that fallout from Soviet nuclear tests has pushed levels in Canada to the highest point in the two years samplings have been made.

He said the level in Toronto on Sept. 16-17 was 470 units, 1,500 times normal.

Monteth said the international commission of radiological protection's maximum permissible tolerance level was 6.6 units maintained over a lifetime.

But he said the present levels "might constitute a health hazard" if maintained for a "sufficient" period.

DROPS QUICKLY

He said the level in Toronto fell from 470 on Sept. 16-17 to 215 on Sept. 17-18. Other figures from the samplings were Ottawa, 90 and 75, Fredericton, N.B., 140 and 90; Montreal 80 and 100 and Windsor, Ont., 200 and 260.

Vancouver had the highest reading in Western Canada with 20 units on Sept. 9. The Vancouver level fell to 3.6 the next day.

The average level in Canada before the resumption of nuclear tests by the Soviet Union on Sept. 1 was 3.14 units. The previous high was 90 recorded in Whitehorse, N.W.T., in the spring following Soviet tests in the fall of 1958.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker told the Commons the figures showed a "flagrant disregard" for humanity on the part of the Soviet Union. He said the figures would be sent to External Affairs Minister Green in New York to be brought to the attention of the United Nations.

Monteth made his statement to the Commons and spoke later with newsmen. He was accompanied by several of his fallout experts.

SHORT-LIVED

One of the advisors, Dr. Peter M. Bird, said the fallout detected over Canada contained short-lived components which were quickly dissipated and were not harmful. He said the actual level of dangerous

U.S. RECORDS 14TH TEST BY RUSSIA

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Russia today fired its 14th fall-out producing nuclear bomb since it resumed testing on Sept. 1.

Announcement of the latest Soviet blast in the atmosphere was made here by the Atomic Energy Commission.

THE AEC said it was set off early today in the vicinity of Novaya Zemlya and had a yield of about a megaton, or equal to a million tons of TNT.

JAPAN THEORY

New Type Bomb Exploded?

TOKYO (AP) — A university professor in Niigata, 180 miles northwest of Tokyo, said today Russia may have detonated a new type of nuclear bomb in its current test series.

Professor Seitaro Koyama of the science faculty said the presumption is based on the fact that uranium-238 found in nuclear bombs before was not detected in "hot" rain that fell over Niigata last weekend, the newspaper Yomiuri reported.

A sharp increase of radioactivity was recorded in rain that fell in Niigata last weekend, Koyama said, but no uranium-238 was uncovered.

He said the new-type bomb may be the fifth detonated Sept. 10 in the current test series.

Meanwhile, Tokyo's meteorological agency said the highest amount of radioactivity since Russia began the current test series was detected in the air over Tokyo Sept. 18-19.

Heed Pope's Warning Nikita Tells Catholics

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet Premier Khrushchev welcomed today the recent appeal of Pope John for negotiations to avert war but called on United States President Kennedy, West German Chancellor Adenauer and other Roman Catholics to heed the Pope's "solemn warning."

Khrushchev's statement was in the form of answers to questions from correspondents of the Communist party newspaper Pravda and the government paper Izvestia concerning the Pope's special appeal and mass for peace Sept. 10.

The Pope called "upon the rulers of nations to face squarely the tremendous responsibilities they bear." He asked for sincere negotiations to vindicate truth and justice in order that "force shall not prevail."

The Soviet leader's statement was an unusual if not unprecedented reply to a pope of the Roman Catholic Church.

"As a Communist and Atheist I do not believe in the Lord's will," said Khrushchev. "But one thing I can say with confidence: The great responsibility of the governments to their peoples, to mankind, requires that they should exert every possible effort and start seeking jointly ways to do away with the vestiges of the Second World War, to eliminate the seats of tension, to curb the flamboyant bearers of a new world conflagration."

Khrushchev said the Soviet government worked hard to ward off the danger of a new world war by seeking to conclude a German peace treaty.

Soviet leaders, he said, were "for a peaceful settlement of all disputed international problems through talks and we can only welcome a call for talks."

130 MPH WINDS

Hurricane Threatens N. England

CAPE HATTERAS, N.C. (AP)—Hurricane Esther withdrew a threat to the North Carolina-Virginia coast today but rumbled off-shore on a course which forecasters said would take it close to south-eastern New England Thursday morning.

At noon, EDT, hurricane warnings were hoisted from eastern Long Island, N.Y., to Provincetown, Mass. Winds will increase to gale force tonight and hurricane winds are likely by Thursday morning in this area, pushing tides three to six feet above normal, the weather bureau at Washington predicted.

Hurricane warnings were lowered at noon from Cape Hatteras, N.C., to the Virginia Capes.

Forecasters estimated highest winds to be about 130 miles an hour near the storm centre. Thousands evacuated the Virginia and Maryland coast areas.

Esther, the season's first hurricane to menace the east coast, churned up waves 33 feet high as she labored past the diamond lightship off this coastal point known as the "graveyard of the Atlantic."

strontium 90 in the 470 units recorded in Toronto would be 0.3 units based on the 6.6 unit tolerance level.

"I don't think there's any health hazard at the present time," Bird said.

He added, however, that the effect of constant short-lived activity—for example, from continuing tests one right after another—was not known. He said this might be dangerous.

The unit used for measuring the fallout at Canada's 24 sampling stations is nuclear disintegrations per minute per cubic meter of air.

The highest level recorded Sept. 7, the first check after the Soviet tests, was 30 units in Edmonton.

Bird said the level in Toronto might have been so much higher than other centres because of many factors, including a possible funneling of winds over the city.

Bird said he was unable to compare the rate in Canada with those in other countries because they used different computations. He said the levels were about the same.

Dr. E. A. Watkinson, principal medical officer for environmental research, concurred in his colleague's assessment of lack of immediate danger. "We are not suggesting that the level pose a health hazard at this time," he said.

and the government had said nuclear warheads would be obtained if required for national security. The Bomarc anti-aircraft missile and Voodoo jet interceptor were capable of carrying nuclear warheads.

Mr. Diefenbaker then said the defensive requirements of Canada and the need for the preservation of the nation's security would be the overriding consideration in the government's decision.

Mr. Pearson asked for a Commons discussion on the matter before the decision was taken by the government.

Mr. Diefenbaker said this would be a denial of the responsibility of government. However, the government would ask for Commons support of any decision taken.

Japanese Send Protest

TOKYO (UPI)—Japan told the Soviet Union today the first signs of danger already have appeared in Japan as result of the Russians' testing of nuclear bombs in the current Russian series.

A note dispatched to the Kremlin said Japan "reserved the right to claim indemnity for all damage which may be suffered by the Japanese government and people." The note described the Soviet tests as "reckless."

The note prodded the Soviet Union to reply to the Japanese protest of Sept. 2 against Russia's decision to resume nuclear tests and said "there is an extremely great possibility" Japan will suffer ill effects.

DE GAULLE TO SHED POWERS

PARIS (UPI) — President Charles de Gaulle announced tonight that he plans to surrender his emergency dictatorial powers at the end of this month.

De Gaulle made the announcement to his cabinet just before leaving for a four-day grassroots speaking tour of the French provinces.

The president took full powers to rule the country under article 16 of the Fifth Republic's constitution at the time of the Algiers revolt last April.

Spaak Hopeful

Spaak was expected to make public in the West details of his meeting Tuesday with Khrushchev in the Kremlin—where he went at the Soviet leader's invitation.

A Belgian embassy source said that Spaak was "hopeful and encouraged" after the meeting with Khrushchev and indicated the Russian premier had introduced some "new elements" into the East-West disputes over Berlin.

The source said it was possible Spaak would go to Paris before the weekend to report to NATO on his talk. Spaak is former NATO secretary-general.
